Vol. 43 No. 50 Four Sections Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 17, 1998 $29.50 Per Year 60¢ Per Copy

At the Pennsylvania National Horse Show in the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg last Saturday night, the junior riders from as far away as California and Canada were competing for money and bragging rights. From eight U.S. teams and one from Canada, the grand champion team in the $1,500 Bet/AHSA Prix Des States Team Championship was from Zone II, which includes New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. At the awards ceremony from left, Amanda Forte from Glenmoore rides Fabulist; Amanda Gumberg from Pittsburgh rides Mont Blanc; Mary Dailey Patte from New York, N.Y., rides Maestro; and Dominique Richter from Cazenovia, N.Y., rides Husker Du. Out of eight rides, the team had four perfect rides and only eight total countable faults. This was a repeat performance as Zone II won in 1997, too. The National Horse Show continues through the Grand Prix tonight. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

State Celebrates 1000th Preserved Farm

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor
EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) —
The Ephrata High School band played "This Land is Our Land."

Agricultural officials and political dignitaries from local, county, and state governments arrived under the fancy reception tent staked out along Hackman Road in Clay Township beside the well-kept farm buildings.

The sun shined on the beautiful green fields of alfalfa and stark brown corn stalks weighted with mature ears ready to harvest.

FFA, 4-H, and other school students bagged classes to be there.

Television and newspaper photographers fired away.

Words of ag history and hope for the preservation of agriculture

(Turn to Page A25)

"We accept this honor on behalf of the other 999 farms that have been preserved in Pennsylvania. We are grateful for the many people who work in the farmland preservation effort. I am also happy my parents can be here to help observe his. My dad knows the value of good land as he has taken crops off the land for many years. They are both as glad as I am to have the farm preserved. Welcome to our farm. We look forward to when the next 1,000 farms are preserved and we hope it won't be too long."—Gerald Martin accepting the recognition of the 1,000th farm preserved through Pennsylvania's Farmland Preservation Program.

Issue Highlights Haymakers

Next issue of Lancaster Farming includes Foraging Around, a special quarterly section dedicated to the forage grower and grazer, with information supplied by the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council (PFGC). The section includes interviews with producers about how to make award-winning hay, a new hybrid grass, insights into Pennsylvania's haymaking traditions, and news of upcoming events. The issue includes a message from the PFGC president, research data, and advertising information.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET: FEDERAL/STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was no better than fair. Seller offerings continued to be more than sufficient for current inquiry. Live supplies were moderate; weights were in a full range of light to heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 60 to 74 cents. Trade sentiment was no better than steady. In the parts complex, all items were at least adequate for the irregular but mostly light buying interest.

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY
 Wheat and soybean bids turned lower after yesterday's rally, corn bids showed some strength. Wheat steady to 5 cents lower. Corn steady to 2 cents higher. Sorghum steady. Soybeans 5 to 8 cents lower. Wheat bids were mostly lower, today, pressured by some profit taking on the Boards. Uncertainty about the donation program to Russia and the status of the loan rates in the AG budget bill, weighed on bids. Export demand has been slow this week for wheat. Corn bids were steady to slightly higher as rains are in the forecast this week for the Corn Belt areas. Tempering gains, however, is rapid harvest progress with 43 percent of the crop reported to be in bins. Farmer selling has slowed and basis firmed. Good export sales earlier in the week helped support corn bids. Lower soybean bids were due also to some profit taking on the Boards. Weaker meal bids also pressured bean bids as record high crush rates have resulted in a surge in meal supplies. Early week export sales have limited declines.

OCTOBER 19-25, 1998

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME ENDS, OCT. 25.

St. Luke's Little Summer

St. Luke's Little Summer is an early version of unseasonably warm weather, a next-to-last gasp of the summer's warm breath before the real Indian Summer arrives in November. St. Luke was the patron saint of painters and physicians. He's described as a physician himself, who painted a portrait of the Virgin Mary. He's usually depicted with an ox (for sacrifice) and artist's tools. The French call St. Luke's Little Summer l'été de St. Martin or speak of l'été de la St. Denis à la St. Martin, which spans the period between October 9 and November 11.

On St. Luke's Day, the oxen have leave to play.

TIP OF THE WEEK

Be sure your perennials and herbs are well-mulched now.

CRAN-APPLE CRISP

2 cups fresh cranberries
3 cups coarsely diced, peeled apples ('Granny Smith', 'Braeburn', or other)
1 cup white sugar
1-1/2 cups rolled oats
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup maple syrup
freshly grated nutmeg

together the oats, butter, and salt. Stir in the maple syrup and pour the oat mixture over the fruit. Grate nutmeg over the top and bake at 350° F for 1 hour, or until fruit is tender.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Butter a 2-quart baking dish and pour into it the cranberries, apples, and sugar, mixing well. In a separate bowl, mix

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

If the first snow falls on moist, soft earth, it indicates a small harvest for the following year; if upon hard ground, a good harvest.

For every fog in October, a snow in the winter, heavy or light, as with the fog.

First Sunday in the month rain, and it will rain every Sunday of the month.

No "Nuked" Food

American consumers would likely purchase irradiated food products but are not sold on the safety of the technology and would not hesitate to change their minds if news accounts suggest irradiation is unsafe, a recent survey by CMF&Z and the International Food Safety Council, a restaurant and foodservice industry coalition, shows.

Sixty-five percent of consumers surveyed said they are aware of irradiation, up 20 percentage points from a year ago and up 34 percentage points from 1996.

Seventy-one percent of the consumers who are aware of irradiation said they were likely to purchase irradiated meat and 69 percent said they were likely to purchase irradiated produce. Both percentages are slightly greater than a year ago when 64 percent of consumers surveyed said they were likely to purchase irradiated meat and 66 percent said they were likely to purchase irradiated produce.

However, fewer than one-half of the consumers questioned in the survey — 46 percent — said they believe irradiation is a "very effective" tool in improving the safety of meat and 43 percent said they believe the technology is a "very effective" tool in improving the safety of produce.

While irradiation ranks below E-coli, salmonella and hepatitis as an issue of concern to consumers, 64 percent of those surveyed identified irradiation as a food issue concern, and 60 percent said they would refrain from purchasing irradiated foods on the basis of negative media stories.

"The survey results show that irradiation proponents have done a good job in building public awareness of the technology. However, consumer willingness to purchase irradiated products is fragile and could evaporate in the wake of negative media reports on irradiation," says Bill Brewer, public relations counsel for CMF&Z's Food Practice Group. "Irradiation proponents clearly have more work to do to seek credible, third-party allies to build a case for the safety of this technology."

The CMF&Z-Food Safety Council survey showed a large gap between consumers and editors on the likelihood of consumers to react to negative media reports. Only 25 percent of the editors surveyed said their readers would take action in response to negative stories about irradiation, while 60 percent of consumers said negative stories about irradiation, while 60 percent of consumers said negative media reports on irradiation would cause them to refrain from consuming irradiated food.

To begin the wide use of irradiation to compensate for bad food handling practice would be a mistake. Agriculture has enough problems with negative publicity without giving our opponents the opportunity to say the food we put on the national dinner table has been "nuked."

To Know Soil Fertility

A soil test for each field is good sound management when it comes to crop production, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. A soil test is one tool which will allow farmers to minimize fertilizer purchases while meeting the fertility needs of the crop. A soil test will measure the amount of nutrients available from soil reserves. Also, soil testing labs run by college of agriculture in each state is best able to make recommendation on additional nutrients needed to produce the crop and projected yield.

The agricultural colleges have many years of yield response data to base their recommendations. Because yield response varies from different areas, the college in the state where the farm is located is usually best able to make good recommendations.

To Do Soil Tests

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, reminds us that fall is perhaps the best time to test soils for fertility. Taking soil samples at this time of year allows ample time for laboratory analysis, interpretation of results and developing a nutrient management strategy for the use of manure and purchased fertilizer.

A few simple guidelines for taking soil samples are: 1. Take cores from at least 15 to 20 random spots throughout the field; 2. Any one composite sample should not represent more than 30 acres of land which has been managed as a unit; 3. Sampling areas should be based on soil type and management history; 4. Areas within a field which have drastically different yield potentials should be sampled separately; 5. Avoid taking cores from problem areas within a field; 6. Take samples to the normal plow depth used in the field; and 7. No till field samples should be separated into two composite samples (0 to 2 inches and 2 inches to 8 inches). The shallow sample is most important as it relates to acidity. After drying and mixing the composite samples send them to a reputable laboratory for analysis. To monitor the impact recommendations have on soil fertility levels, use the same laboratory over a period of time.

To Avoid Lead in Drinking Water

If your drinking water is contaminated with lead, this can have serious health implications, according to Leon Ressler, Lancaster County Extension Environmental Agent. Excessive levels in blood contribute to various health problems including mental retardation, interference with kidney and neurological functions and hearing loss in children. Children are especially sensitive to lead.

Although lead occurs naturally in some water supplies, its presence can also be attributed to plumbing. Soft, acidic water passing through lead pipe or contacting a lead soldered joint for a period of hours can dissolve enough lead to cause concern. Homeowners should use lead free solder when making repairs.

The amount of lead dissolved in water from lead pipes or solder is the highest when the water has been held in the pipe for several hours. Therefore, it is best not to drink the first water from the tap each morning since the water has been held in the pipe for several hours. Run the tap for 3 to 5 minutes before drinking or using it for cooking. Also, since hot water dissolves lead rapidly, do not use it for cooking or preparing infant formula.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "It is a funny thing about life. If you refuse to accept anything but the best, you very often get it."

THE ARROGANCE OF POWER

October 18, 1998

Background Scripture:

I Kings 12

Devotional Reading:

Matthew 27:15-26

It is tempting for us to assume that Rehoboam and Jeroboam were simply evil men doing what evil men do best: evil! But to put their thoughts and actions into perspective, we must realize that probably neither of these men thought of themselves as evil. Like us and leaders in our own time, they probably both honestly believed in the rightness of their actions. Most evil people do not start out to be evil, but simply become evil in the arrogant way in which they exercise power.

Actually, I am more fearful of the person who is unreservedly certain that he is doing the smart thing than the one who knowingly sets out to do evil. The former is, I think, the most dangerous, because he or she does not realize and acknowledge the human capacity to be and do wrong. One of my seminary professors, Reinhold Niebuhr has written that, "Power always thinks that it has a great soul and vast views beyond the comprehension of the weak; and that it is doing God's service when it is violating all His laws" (The Irony of American History). I can imagine that both Rehoboam and Jeroboam entertained the assumption that they were "doing God's service" as Niebuhr put it.

THEY HAD CHOICES

It is also significant to me that neither of these men were forced to make the choices that proved so disastrous. Rehoboam, the son of King Solomon, was assured of the support of the entire 12 tribes of Israel if he would but "lighten the hard service of your father and his heavy yoke upon us . . ." (12:4). Nor could Rehoboam blame his bad decision on his court, for he had a choice between the wise counsel of his elder advisors and the harsh words recommended by his young advisors.

Note the arrogance of their reply: "... this you shall say to them: My little finger is thicker than my father's loins. And now, whereas my father laid upon you a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke. My father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions" (12:11). Did these men really believe words such as these would bring the nation under Rehoboam's control. Apparently they did. As harsh as those words sound, they are possibly no more cynical than the advice some advisors and consultants give to political figures in our own time.

The case of Jeroboam was different. None of the tribes, except that of Judah (and Benjamin), would submit to Rehoboam, who had practically handed the rest of Israel to Jeroboam on a silver platter. And he made a good start: warned by a prophet not to raise an army to conquer Rehoboam and the men of Judah, he canceled his invasion plans. So far, so good.

POLITICAL GROUNDS

But Jeroboam soured a good beginning with a disastrous ending. Assured of the support of the 10 tribes of Israel, Jeroboam made a religious decision on political grounds and it proved to be disastrous. Fearing that if his people returned to Jerusalem to worship as they had since the time of David, they would want to defect to Rehoboam, he decided to keep them from Jerusalem by setting up places of worship in both Dan and Bethel. Cocky with power, he also decided not to use the God-appointed Levites as priests and replaced traditional worship with obeisance to calves of gold. I'll bet he thought that was a really clever idea!

William J. Gaynor, a mayor of New York City, has said, "We have more to fear from the growth of arbitrary power in officials than from all other vices and crimes combined." Power is a drug that numbs our sensibilities and befuddles our brains. Among antitrust lawyers there is a saying: "Show me the power and I will show you its abuse." Why, because, necessary as it is to lead and govern, power tends to corrupt human nature.

Whether practiced in the state house, the White House or your house, it can be dangerously intoxicating.

Bloomsburg Fair Features Shows, Livestock Sale & Governor's Visit

JUDITH PATTON
Union Co. Correspondent
BLOOMSBURG (Columbia Co.) — Bloomsburg Fair Holstein show winner Melvin Peifer of Lititz got the usual trophies and ribbons plus an unexpected prize — a chance to meet Governor Tom Ridge. Walking amidst a crowd of fair-goers at the dairy barn, who were given campaign buttons saying "Agriculture for Ridge and Schweiker," Gov. Ridge stopped to meet the grand champion Holstein, East-Knoll Holly Charles Jo, a Junior 3-Year-Old.

In his speech to the show crowd Gov. Ridge said that small farmers need support from state and federal governments in their struggle to stay in this "tough, competitive business," which he acknowledged is the state's top industry. On the issue of curbing urban sprawl in rural areas, Ridge stated, "We need to have a public debate about where we want land use to go in the next century."

State ag secretary, Samuel Hayes, who was with the governor, said that advances in ag finances and biotechnology are necessary to keep Pennsylvania farmers competitive in a changing economy. "We have to protect the farmers' right to farm," he said.

Holstein Results

Winning grand champion honors had special significance for Mel Peifer this year, as his mentor, Ralph Sands, marked his 50th year of participation in the show.

Judge Tom Boyer, a dairy farmer and American Breeders Service representative from York, selected these champions from 135 entries shown by 55 exhibitors: grand champion and best udder, East-Knoll Holly Charles Jo, shown by Melvin Peifer, Lititz; reserve grand champion - Elites-JSJ Fac-

The Building you want.

The Lease you need.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.
Then: Call your Telmark representative for your financing.

Beef Quality...

Is Every Cattleman's Business!!

All Pennsylvania cattle producers are invited to attend one of the fall educational meetings sponsored by the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Livestock Markets Association, Taylor Packing, and Moyer Packing. The meetings will bring cattle producers the latest information on targeting breeding for customer satisfaction, culling strategies, and enhancing beef quality and product value. Announcing New Products for Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers.

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP

This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high bypass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

GOLDEN MEAL 40

An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorptions.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans
Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributors of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

China's Bout With A.I. Still Concerns Worldwide Poultry Industry

ANDY ANDREWS

Lancaster Farming Staff
MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — About 900 million people live on "farms" in China, a country that holds 20 percent of the world's population.

China is the world's leading pork producer at five times the size of the U.S. and number two in world production of meat poultry, according to Dr. David Kradel, poultry health consultant and coordinator of the state's renowned egg quality assurance program.

With a huge population that relies heavily on open markets to sell live birds and is slow in developing western-style methodologies to handle diseases, this could spell concerns for the poultry industry worldwide.

Kradel spoke to more than two dozen industry representatives Monday at the Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant in Manheim.

In September, Kradel traveled to China along with two nutritionists and a manufacturing representative under the auspices of the American Soybean Association (ASA). The group toured China's several large poultry-producing regions, including laboratories and processing plants.

Kradel said that he was surprised to see that China, in terms of total land area, is actually smaller than the U.S. Only 10 percent of the land is tillable, home to about 1.3 billion people, five times the population of the U.S.

About 70 percent of the total population lives in rural areas and are classified "farmers." Of the 1.3 billion people, "I'm sure there's that many bicycles, too," Kradel said, since the cities are congested and bicycles provide the primary means of transportation.

ASA sees the value in such a venture and maintains an active presence in China. Grain companies export soybeans (four million tons) and soybean oil meal (about two million tons) annually into China. Ninety percent of the soybeans they feed to poultry comes from the U.S.; only about 10 percent of the oil meal comes from the U.S. (India's prices undercut U.S.).

Kradel and the ASA-sponsored group took part in two-day seminars in five different locations: Beijing, Shanyann, Shanghai, Guandong (which exports chickens to the nearby Hong Kong market, and Hong Kong. When it was over, Kradel learned about some of the progress the industry has made and how it has tackled some of the issues, including the worldwide industry concerns about avian influenza (A.I.)

"I really enjoyed the experience and the trip," he said. "I was glad to come back home, though, as almost anyone is."

China, he said, is moving in the direction of "trying to be more open" yet is only slowly accepting western-style industry technology and health management protocols. The farm and business infrastructure is "very complex," he said, and the politics are intrinsic in almost all aspects of the industry.

However, many western companies, including those from the U.S., are actively involved in joint ventures with the growers in some parts of the country.

China is number one in the production of eggs, tripled in the past few years over the U.S.

There are three types of farms in the country: the household or backyard farms, with one to four sows and a small flock of chickens; a specialized household farm with 1,000-2,000 broilers at five cycles per year; and modern poultry production units, in a government venture (at least 40-50 of them in operation, Kradel noted).

Of the large ventures, several companies hold a good bit of the 48 percent market share, with Arbor Acres on top at 32 percent, Hubbard at 8 percent, and others.

In the country, 700 farms manage typical populations of 1,500-10,000 broilers per farm in growouts under contract. The flocks are raised along with mink — dead chickens are a source of mink feed.

China is making little use of imported western-style technology, especially in the area of poultry health. On a tour of the Shanghai region, Kradel discovered at one lab site, "they were doing very, very little." He looked into an incubator and saw there was "not one plate in there," he said, compared to the stacks of plates found in a typical U.S. poultry health lab.

What is the Chinese government's "official" position on A.I.? "They don't have it," Kradel said.

But several A.I. serotypes have turned up from chicken out of the Guandong region, so "they undoubtedly do have it," Kradel said.

The biggest concerns: the presence of the H5N1 A.I. virus, the first reported virus that actually spread from birds to humans.

In 1997, of 18 cases of human infestation of the poultry virus, six people died. It's uncertain how those people became infected — other than they handled birds in the live markets on a consistent basis. Family members, friends, and co-workers who had contact with those exposed didn't come down with the disease.

Exactly how the virus spread from poultry to humans is still under investigation. However, Kradel noted that research in Wisconsin shows that swine can pick up the disease from poultry and transmit it to humans. And there are a lot of hogs in China.

Hogs are the only species "that can take avian influenza from poultry and reassert it... as a type pathological to avians and humans," said Kradel.

In Honk Kong, 1.7 million birds were depopulated in the live bird markets. The cleanup and disinfection was successful. Now, trucks are stopped and blood samples of birds are taken on a mandatory basis.

But according to Hong Kong experts, the H5N1 virus taken out of the country is the "most pathological A.I. ever seen," with 100 percent mortality to birds in a 24-hour time period. This is a "very significant problem" for disease in poultry and the human population, said Kradel.

Kradel provided an overview of the virus, symptoms of disease, and the risk the live bird markets in the U.S. still pose to the industry, with a hundred of them in New York and New Jersey areas alone.

"We have to do what we can to make sure it doesn't come back into commercial flocks," Kradel said. "We have to keep working with the USDA and so forth," noted Kradel, to learn more about how to control the virus. There is a need to be "as biosecure as we possibly can," he said.

through the 21st century were presented with religious fervor.

Three generations of the Gerald and Carolyn Martin family graciously endured the fuss and intrusion into their quiet farm family life as part of their ongoing determination that farming in Pennsylvania and especially in their little corner of the universe will continue in the future as it has in the past.

The Martin's 80-acre home place became the focal point of the 1,000th preserved farm milestone in the state Thursday morning. Pennsylvania's Agriculture Secretary Samuel Hayes Jr., hosted the celebration on behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge.

"There is tremendous competition for the land," Hayes said. "In the economic condition we are in it is easy to be lured to sell the land for something other than agriculture. As important as those other purposes are, we must never take our eye off the most essential use of this prime blessed land. We must keep it for agriculture."

"It is a matter of public policy in Pennsylvania to preserve farmland. But it takes a private decision by a farm family to make the program a success. The Martin family has decided to preserve this farm for today and into perpetuity to the benefit of all of us. There is no question what this farm is to do. It is to sustain the people of Lancaster County, the people of Pennsylvania, America, and the world."

"This is a sterling example of citizenship. The FFA moto includes 'living to serve.' By the action of the Martin family, they are carrying out the high principle of the FFA moto. They are living as farmers, but through their actions, they are living to serve not mostly themselves but mankind. That is a tremendous tribute to their foresight and citizenship."

The Commonwealth has been preserving farms since 1989 when Governor Casey established the Statewide Farmland Preservation Program. Today there are 46 counties throughout the State that have farmland preservation programs with 1,000 farms with 126,000 acres preserved.

Lancaster County is known nationally for its leadership in farmland preservation. Not only did it develop the State's first public farmland protection program in 1980, the Farmland Trust, a privately funded farmland preservation program has operated successfully so that to date between these public and private programs more farms have been preserved through the purchase of development rights than anywhere else in the United States. Today its program serves as a model for the nation.

At the ceremony, William and Lena Aaron, Drumore, were honored as the first farm owners to preserve their farm under the state program. That was in November of 1989.

Noah Wenger, Leroy Zimmerman, and Katie True were among the state congressional representatives that spoke. Ray Pickering, state bureau director of farmland preservation, recognized the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board. Gene Garber, board president, accepted the recognition.

Former Pennsylvania Ag Secretary Boyd Wolf and Amos Funk, well-known father of the farmland preservation movement, were recognized.

The Farmland Preservation Program is funded by a $100 million bond issue approved by voters in a referendum in 1987. Additionally, two cents of the state's cigarette tax is dedicated to the preservation program. Already the celebrated benchmark has been exceeded. As of the October Agriculture Land Preservation Board meeting, 1,002 farms totaling 125,947 acres have been preserved in 41 counties.

butterfat during June, July, August and September lost about $5,550 in potential income.

This is not exactly correct, because the fact is that the reasons for the drop in butterfat during these months are the same reasons we get slightly higher milk yields.

Let us discuss the causes for this and decide if we have a reasonable trade-off.

First, we need to examine the statement made about this particular herd and its non-changing feed program.

With the information that was gathered we indeed see that these cows are being fed the same this summer as last winter. Corn silage, hay silage, high moisture corn, protein concentrate and hay make up the diet year-round.

Careful consideration is given to macro- and micro-nutrient balance.

This indeed looks like a diet that is well-balanced and deserving to be put in front of cows.

There is a reason that we should look at what the cows tell us and not what the ration spreadsheet says. In this case, I'm quite certain we are looking at one of the most common mistakes made in trying to feed our herds — the on-paper diet is not the one the cows are consuming.

Further study into what this herd is eating tells us pretty much why there is a butterfat problem.

Cows are housed in the barn at night and are fed cafeteria style, according to the formulated ration.

During the day they are turned out to their haylage feeding which happens to be round-bale silage.

The mistake made was to assume the dry matter intake remained the same during the past few months.

With no known way to measure the haylage consumed outside, and the cows eating inside at night to eat all their grain and cornsilage, there can be a large shift in the amount of fiber consumed from forage.

Add the knowledge that inside the barn the cows eat everything except a portion of their long hay, and the problem becomes compounded.

How do we correct the problem?

First of all, when conditions become hot, we need to adjust the diets to account for lower dry matter intakes.

In my experience, it is better to guess the DMI too low than too high.

Rumen health will suffer and lead to other problems associated with it when diets get out of balance, from a fiber-standpoint, for more than just a short time.

When we can't measure what the cows are eating, we must make educated guesses about DMI. I for one like to start with the notion that cows will drop DMI about 10 percent when heat and humidity rise over a combined total of 150 (80 degrees and 70 percent humidity).

Making this adjustment has served me well in the past, but you need to make that determination according to how well you manage for cow comfort during these times. Of course, as temperature and humidity increase, so will the drop in DMI.

Your cows will tell you when you feed them right. Use your DHIA records, along with on-the-farm indicators, such as manure scoring, body condition scoring, and DMI to adjust diets that will maintain proper rumen health.

Air Quality - Article 19

The next several articles will focus on cow-friendly environments for the purpose of:

- Providing cows with a comfortable, healthy environment.
- Building and remodeling facilities with cow comfort and future expandability in mind.

Cows that are comfortable and healthy generally are more productive and more profitable. Thus, it is important to keep cow comfort and cow health in mind when remodeling or building new facilities. Dream of what your future dairy facilities should look like. Then, spend your money wisely by building "it" right the first time. In other words, be sure your plans have provisions for proper ventilation, for proper stall design, for proper pen layout, and for the efficient handling of cattle in a non stressful manner. It's easier to incorporate these concepts into your building and remodeling plans at the time of construction, rather than trying to fit them in sometime later, after the construction has been completed. It helps you spend your capital more wisely and it increases the chance that you will end up with a more workable and a more cow-friendly setup in the future.

Some areas to focus on are air quality, shelters, rest areas, heat stress and social stresses. Let's begin with air quality.

Our goal is to provide fresh air to the lungs without causing a cold draft. This helps to prevent respiratory problems and lung damage, it enhances cows' appetites and milk production, and it boosts their immune systems. The emphasis is on getting stale air out of the barn and replacing it with fresh air, not just circulating the stale air.

Remember, cattle are cold weather animals. Fresh air is more important to them than warm temperatures! As you design your ventilation systems, seek expert advice.

Get good cross flow of air. Open up the south sides of barns, as well as the side walls of pole structures. Pole barns should be constructed with 12-14 foot high eaves. In addition to improving the cross flow of air, this height will also keep heat higher off the cows' backs. Opening the ridge will allow trapped heat, moisture, odors and gasses to escape out the top. Ridge vents should be 2 inches wide for every 10 feet of building width, with the minimum width being 6 inches.

If necessary, install fans to help exchange air. One fan should run continuously in order to exchange about 50 cfm of air per 1000 lb. of body weight. This will help prevent air from getting stale on cold days when there is minimal need to move air. As temperatures increase, you will need additional thermostatically controlled fans, set at around 50 degrees, to exhaust about 200 cfm per 1000 lb. of body weight. For these exhaust systems to work properly, you need a fairly tight barn. To provide fresh air to all areas of the stable, air inlets should be scattered uniformly around the perimeter of the barn. It is highly desirable to locate some air inlets in the calf section of the barn so they are exposed to some fresh air (without drafts) rather than pulling the warm, stale, moisture-laden air from the older cattle over them.

In summer time and on hot days, you need to move much more air. Tunnel ventilation works well for ventilating tie-stall barns in summer. For typical tie-stall barns of average width and height, two 48-inch fans are needed for each row of stalls. That should move air through the barn at about 3-4 mph (about walking speed). The fans are located in one end of the barn, and all side wall inlets are kept closed so all of the air is drawn in through large inlets at the opposite end of the barn. You will need a lot of air inlet space -- about 1 foot of clear opening from wall to wall, or its equivalent, for each 48 inch fan! Controlling the direction of air flow in a tunnel system is very important. Otherwise, dead air spots can develop. Avoid side wall openings, as they tend to shoot air to one side of the barn and create dead air spaces on the opposite side. If end wall openings are insufficient, try lifting floor boards from hay mows and barn floors at the inlet end of the barn. Prevailing winds can also alter air flow in the barn, properly-sized inlets can help reduce this problem by increasing air velocity and "straightening" out the flow of air.

Tunnel ventilation systems are hot weather systems, not year-round systems! When temperatures drop, be careful not to pull too much cool air over cows; you could chill them and set them up for pneumonia. In hot weather, with all of the tunnel fans running, we may be exchanging air every 20 to 60 seconds, depending upon the length of the barn and the number and size of fans. However, in cold weather we would need to run fewer fans, and the air exchange is much less. It takes longer for the air to move from one end of the barn to the other. Thus, it has more time to pick up moisture, germs and odors, and the cows at the exhaust end of the barn are constantly breathing fowl air -- not a healthy situation.

Manheim Farm Show Sale Fetches Premium Prices For Exhibitors

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — One-hundred sixty-six animals went on the Manheim Farm Show auction block amid torrential downpours late last week at the fairgrounds.

All week long exhibitors, judges, and spectators had to endure monsoon-like rains throughout the fair, bringing record one-day rainfalls to the area.

But the Friday night sale featured the calls of auctioneer Bob Wolgemuth echoing throughout the livestock barn.

Marlin Becker, one of the sale coordinators, noted to the spectators, buyers, and friends at the sale that all four champions of the different species at the farm show were all first-time winners. "That's kind of unusual," he said.

But the inclement weather didn't put a stop to the bids. In all, $97,388.50 was raised at the sale, including champions and resales.

Grand champion goat, weighing 70 pounds, was exhibited by Celeste Landis, Lititz, and sold for $4.50 a pound to Manheim Auto Auction. Fulton Bank purchased the reserve champion, a 78-pound goat exhibited by Amanda Grube, Elizabethtown, for $5 a pound.

In all, 17 head of goats were sold, raising $5,381.50.

Tracy Zimmerman, Manheim, exhibited her 250-pound grand champion swine at the Manheim Farm Show. Her hog sold to Manheim Auto Auction for $4.75 a pound. Reserve champion swine at Manheim, a 263-pound hog also shown by Tracy, sold to EMM Sales and Service for $4 a pound.

Altogether, 100 hogs sold for $48,294.25.

Travis Donough, Manheim, exhibited the 129-pound sale lamb, which sold for $3.25 a pound to Jacob H. Ruhl Insurance. The 119-pound reserve sale lamb, exhibited by John Tracy, Elizabethtown, sold for $3.25 a pound to Fulton Bank.

Thirty-four lambs sold for a total of $11,283.20.

Grand champion steer, weighing 1,298 pounds and exhibited by Ryan Groff, Manheim, sold for $2.50 per pound to Manheim Auto Auction. Before the sale, Jessica Stoltzfus, who showed the reserve champion, was picked as homecoming queen, so instead, the 1,293-pound Shorthorn/Angus crossbred was paraded by Travis Donough and sold for $1.50 a pound to Hoss's Steak and Seafood House.

There were 17 steers sold for a total of $32,429.55.

Lloyd Ebersole to Speak at Annual Meeting

J. Lloyd Ebersole is the featured speaker at the 1998 Penn State Dairymen's Club Annual Meeting. A charter member and first president of the Dairymen's Club, Ebersole will shed light on the club's 20-year history and mission to the Pennsylvania dairy industry.

Ebersole grew up on a Guernsey farm in Perry County, PA. He began his career in the artificial insemination (A.I.) industry in 1962, working in the barn and laboratory of the First PA Artificial Breeding Cooperative in Lewisburg, PA. He worked as an A.I. technician for three years before attending Penn State and receiving his baccalaureate degree in agricultural education. As a member of the Penn State dairy judging team, he was the high individual in the 1968 National Intercollegiate Dairy Judging Contest. He was a member of the Livestock Judging Team the following year.

In 1970, Ebersole returned to the A.I. industry concentrating on the areas of herd evaluation, direct herd training and the training and supervision of technicians. He became a sire analyst for Sire Power in 1972 and was named director of sire programs in 1974. In 1979, he was named assistant manager at Sire Power, a position he holds today.

Ebersole has served the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) on a number of committees. These committees include the Dairy Sire Evaluation Committee that he chaired for three years, the Beef Development Committee and the National Dairy Herd Improvement Rules Committee, which he served as an industry representative. In 1994, he was elected to the NAAB Board of Directors. A lifetime member of the Dairy Shrine, he was a director for six years, before serving as president in 1994.

A strong supporter of youth and an advocate of education, Ebersole has given freely of his time to Penn State, the Department of Dairy Science, and the Pennsylvania dairy industry. He serves as a judge for numerous intercollegiate and youth dairy judging contests at the PA All-American Show and World Dairy Expo. He also was instrumental in conducting a research trial at Penn State to determine the best method of incorporating linear evaluation formats into judging contests.

The Dairymen's Club is honored to have Lloyd Ebersole, a distinguished leader in the Pennsylvania dairy industry, as our guest speaker at the annual meeting.

Frederick Holstein, Guernsey Show Results Reported

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 17, 1998-A39

KAREN BUTLER

Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md. — An aged cow was selected as the grand champion of the open class Holstein show here at the Frederick County Fair. C Melrosa Insp Delite, a 9-year-old cow exhibited by Hard-Rock Holsteins, Middletown, was the senior and grand champion of the show, held in the dairy showing at the Frederick fairgrounds in conjunction with the 136th annual Great Frederick Fair.

Judge for the event was Jason Myers of Windsor-Manor Farm, New Windsor. Judge Myers said that the cow's overall scale, her capacity, and the fact that her udder was still well above the hock and attached well at 9 years of age put her at the top of the Holstein show. "I really admire her dairiness and her balance. Her udder is outstanding. She's very correct in her feet and her legs; just a real well put-together individual," explained Mr. Myers.

Fresh in the middle of August, Delite had 138 pounds of milk per day on her last test, said Richard Kepler, one of her owners. The Hard-Rock prefix belongs to the trio of Kepler, Dave Lenhart, and Tom Mercuro. Mr. Kepler said Delite, housed in Hagerstown, in Washington County, was All-Maryland for 2 years and reserve All-Maryland last year.

The junior champion of the Holstein show was the top placed junior yearling Knob-View Encore Sue, exhibited by Heather Molesworth of Middletown. The Sue heifer is a Marcrest Encore daughter. Heather, the daughter of Marcia Kepler Molesworth, has been exhibiting dairy animals for three years. She has shown at the county and the state levels.

As in past years the Holstein show and the Guernsey show were held together in the showing. Classes in the two breeds alternated, culminating in the selection of grand champions of each breed.

The grand champion Guernsey was a Walnut Ridge Farm entry, Catocin Perfect Buttercup. Five-year-old Buttercup, fresh in June, is milking a little over 75 pounds a day, according to Pam Hawker Moser, who led the big Guernsey around the showing. This was the first time the Hawker family of Middletown had shown this particular cow. They have been showing Guernseys since the 1950s, and are always a strong presence at Guernsey shows. This year the eight family members showed Guernseys, according to Mrs. Helen Hawker.

The junior champion of the Guernsey show was the first place senior yearling calf Anovadales Frank Happy. Happy is a homebred Spring Walk BT Frank daughter out of Anovadales Jakes Honey.

Results for the open class Holstein and Guernsey shows follow.

Falling for Walnuts

Rejoice this baking season in an abundant and low-priced supply.

As a fall chill enters the air, what could be more appealing than a warm, fragrant kitchen filled with freshly baked desserts? Baking is part of the autumn landscape, and walnuts are a continuing theme in family recipes that withstand the test of time.

Walnuts have always played an important role in the fall baking tradition. Walnuts' unique, mellow flavor, delightful crunch and toasted aroma are an incomparable component of many baked desserts. And this is the season to stock up on these very popular baking nuts—walnut growers have been blessed with an abundance of high-quality walnuts, have reduced prices accordingly. To celebrate, a liberal sprinkle of walnuts is in order.

The flavorful rewards of baking with walnuts are illustrated in the following recipes—three of the most popular recipes from generations of baking research at the Diamond Walnut test kitchens.

HARVEST WALNUT PIE

- 3 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 cup dark corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 (9-inch) unbaked pastry pie shell
- 1 1/2 cups large pieces walnuts

Heat oven to 400°F. Combine eggs, sugar, flour, corn syrup, butter and vanilla, blend well. Pour into unbaked pie shell, arrange walnuts on top. Bake in lower third of oven at 400°F for 15 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350°F, bake an additional 35 to 45 minutes or until center appears set. Cool completely. 8 servings.

BEST CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

- 1 cup butter softened
- 1 1/3 cups sugar
- 2/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 12-oz. pkg. (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 2 cups chopped walnuts

Heat oven to 350°F. Combine butter, sugar, brown sugar, eggs and vanilla, beat until light and fluffy. Stir in flour, baking soda and salt, mix well. Stir in chocolate and walnuts. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in upper third of oven at 350°F for 10 minutes or until set. (Cookies do not brown very much. Texture is soft when removed from oven but slightly crisp and chewy when cool.) Remove from cookie sheets, cool on wire racks. About 5 dozen cookies. Turn to page B3

RASPBERRY WALNUT SHORTBREAD BARS

- 1 1/4 cups plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, divided
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/3 cup raspberry jam
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/8 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

Heat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease a 9-inch square pan. Combine 1 1/4 cups flour and 1/2 cup sugar, using pastry blender or fork, cut in butter until mixture resembles fine meal. Press into greased pan. Bake at 350°F for 20 minutes or just until edges are lightly golden. Spread hot crust with raspberry jam. Combine eggs, brown sugar and vanilla, beat well. Combine remaining 2 tablespoons flour and baking soda, stir into egg mixture. Fold in walnuts. Spoon over jam, spread lightly to pan corners. Return to oven, bake additional 20 or 25 minutes or until top is set. Cool completely, cut into bars. 20 bars.

TIPS

- Toasting enhances the flavor and crispness of walnuts. To toast in the oven, spread shelled walnuts on baking sheet or shallow pan and bake at 350°F for 10–12 minutes, stir several times.
- You can toast walnuts in the microwave. Place 3/4 to 1 cup of walnuts in a single layer in a glass pie plate. Microwave on high (650 to 700 watt, 100%) for 4 to 5 minutes or until toasted, stirring every 2 minutes, cool.
- Walnuts aren't just for baked goods—these wonderfully versatile nuts also enhance pastas, salads, appetizers and sauces and contribute valuable protein to vegetarian dishes.
- To keep your walnuts fresh, store shelled nuts in an airtight container in the refrigerator or freezer.
- Do not shell walnuts until ready to use.
- Always measure walnuts after chopping, and for best results, use a chef's knife to chop walnuts.

Did You Know...

- Walnuts were a favorite delicacy of the ancient Romans and were used not only for eating but also to dye wool and color hair.
- The word "walnut" originates from walnut, an Old English word for "Welsh nut."
- Sales of walnuts are greater than almonds and pecans combined.
- An average of 400 million pounds of walnuts are harvested each year from the central and northern sections of California.
- California produces virtually all of the walnuts grown commercially in the United States and exports them to more than 100 other countries.
- Walnuts are high in food energy, are a good source of vegetable protein, contain no cholesterol and are low in saturated fats and sodium.
- Walnuts are harvested from mid-September through November.
- After a walnut tree is planted, it takes six years to bear fruit and isn't considered mature until it's 12 to 14 years old. The tree can continue to produce for as long as 100 years.

HISTORY

Walnuts are one of the oldest tree foods known to man, dating back to 7,000 B.C. The nuts, which grew wild over much of Europe and Asia, were introduced into China from central Asia in 140 B.C., and by 618 they were popular among the Chinese upper class. These so-called English (more properly, Persian) walnuts were introduced into California in the late 1700s by the Spanish Franciscan priests. In 1853 walnuts were exhibited at the first horticultural fair of the California State Agricultural Society, and by 1868 approximately 31,000 walnut trees were being grown in California. The launch of the walnut industry in the 1860s is credited to Joseph Sexton, an innovative nurseryman. As the production of walnuts increased, growers began forming marketing associations or cooperatives whose goals emphasized quality production. In 1912 the California Walnut Growers Association was formed to receive, pack, ship and market the walnuts grown by its members and to act as their representative in the crop distribution. The association took the name Diamond Walnut Growers in 1956, and by the 1990s was handling more than 47 percent of California's annual walnut crop thanks to its reputation for consistency and quality through state-of-the-art processing equipment and personal, hands-on attention to all its products.

Energy and enthusiasm spill from Royell Bashore as she bounces around the kitchen.

The five-year-old is Lebanon County's Li'l Miss, who helps the dairy princess with milk promotion.

"Do you want to hear my Milk Song?" she asks.

Without skipping a beat, she launches into the song to the tune of "Row, Row, Row Your Boat."

"Drink, Drink, Drink your milk. It will really make you gleam. Real dairy, dairy products are life's dream."

So take Royell's advice—drink your mouth. And try this recipe—one of Royell's favorites using real dairy products, of course.

For more about Royell and her family, turn to page B10.

Ida's Notebook

Lancaster County has a half dozen local fairs in the fall. We usually attend at least one parade. This year we chose the Ephrata Parade as our son designed the 75-foot ladder on one of the fire engines. However, it passed so quickly that the three-hour wait in 40 degrees weather hardly seemed worth the time.

Later we drove to Columbia County on our annual visit to the Bloomsburg Fair. It was raining as we left home, but then the sky cleared in the afternoon. For a while we watched harness racing and then checked out the vegetable displays. I noticed that many pumpkins weighed 300 to 400 pounds but the biggest one was a 594 pound monster.

The 4-H and FFA displays were interesting together with many school displays. By the time that we saw the rabbits, chickens and flowers I was ready for a bench to sit down on. The day before I had walked over half a mile to the farm with a message as someone took my car to visit a brother in the hospital. At least my son was kind enough to bring me home on his motorcycle.

Among the weeds in my garden, I still have a few vegetables. There are green beans, tomatoes, red beets, Swiss chard, parsley, pumpkins, and lots of sweet potatoes. Among all of this growth, my husband noticed something unusual. It was a tiny white bird. This completely white bird was with a flock of house finch and a flock of bluebirds. Every morning we watch it and wonder to which family it belongs. Everyone wants to fit in someplace.

starts jobs and doesn't finish them. A stack of registration papers, some still awaiting the sketch markings that positively identify the calves whose pedigrees they contain, back up that personality assessment.

A few steps away, on the kitchen cart, lies a squishable plastic - is "squishable" a word? - small black and white cow figure sporting red jogging shorts and stylish sunglasses. The collapsible - I know that's a word - cow is my frustration pet, designed to be squeezed hard when some irritation becomes such that a physical response feels necessary. Squishing the cow, which pops right back out into shape, is a more acceptable response than hitting something. Or kicking something. Or yelling.

That the squishable cow is kept, real handy, on the kitchen cart, might give you a clue about its owner. On the other hand, the cow still looks almost brand new.

Somewhere around here on the main floor of our old house is the portable phone from the office desk. We have a second portable phone, but the push-buttons no longer all work. But it belongs to the answering machine which still answers. The usable portable is sometimes where it belongs on the office desk. Or it may turn up on the kitchen table. Or in the living room.

When one's house is accessorized with appliances which only half-work, and which may be out of place, what soul traits does that clue? That it's frivolous to replace something which is still useful? That we're not organized? Or that we're just too busy to care, so long as it works when we need it? Maybe all of the above.

But the part of the book review I chuckled over most was a section which noted that folks who don't have pets or plants in their house are subliminally showing they don't want to be responsible for taking care of others' needs.

I read that after having switched chairs so Monk, the aging, spoiled-rotten housecat, could remain curled up on the warm cushions of "my chair" at the kitchen table and after having removed a bouquet of chrysanthemums parked in the center of the table.

Fact is, I'm not sure I know - or care - what having pets and/or plants in one's house means. I just know that most of the people I know well and love have one or the other, and often both.

Finally, I don't know if the book relates how to judge someone who reads book reviews, but not the books themselves. It probably means we cut corners on some things.

And we have to, if we're ever going to find any time to fiddle around with those pets and plants.

York County FFA Selects Outstanding Members

A committee consisting of Pat Diebert of the Lincoln Intermediate Unit, Ed Heindel of the York office of Farm Credit Services, and John Smith of the York Fair Agricultural Society selected the first and second place students from each chapter. Each person selected will receive monetary awards for their accomplishment.

From those individuals placing first in their chapter, an overall county award winner was selected. The county award recipient is Emily Bankert of the Red Lion Area FFA chapter. Bankert is the daughter of Michael and Joyce Bankert, Red Lion. As a part of her FFA experiences she has had projects in off-farm work experience, poultry layers, and sheep breeding.

Bankert has served as her chapter sentinel, reporter, and president and has been chosen for the York County FFA office of sentinel for last year and for the current year. She has participated in and received numerous awards in York County contests such as livestock judging, dairy judging, creed speaking, meats judging, dairy foods, forestry, horse judging, ag salesmanship, apple judging, parliamentary procedure, wildlife identification, and recordkeeping. She has also participated in state contests of dairy foods, parliamentary procedure and agricultural salesmanship.

First-place winners of other chapters were Jason Deardorff, son of Wayne and Bonnie Deardorff, East Berlin of the Dover chapter; Alicia Klobetanz, daughter of Michael Klobetanz, New Cumberland, and Karen Kohler, Lewisberry, of the Gifford Pinchot chapter at Northern York; and Carrie Bailey, daughter of Richard and Darlene Bailey, Dover, of the White Rose Chapter at York Vot-Tech.

April Harrison, daughter of Woodrow and Rose Harrison, Red Lion of the Red Lion Area FFA chapter received second place honors for representing her chapter.

All of these outstanding students will be completing applications this fall in order to receive the Keystone Degree, awarded by the PA FFA organization.

DeKalb Genetics sponsored the awards. Senior students from each of the chapters are eligible to be selected as the outstanding members of their chapter.

Egg Research Leads Sarah To Poultry Ambassadorship

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — To most people an egg is an egg to be eaten for breakfast or stirred into a favorite recipe.

But when Sarah Woodling looks at an egg, she sees it from a whole different perspective.

The small oval-shaped egg has provided her with years of scientific experimentation. It's earned her top level science awards. It's propelled her into a scientific career, and now it has given her the opportunity to represent the poultry industry through her new role as Lancaster County Poultry Ambassador.

While most people keep a dozen or so eggs in the refrigerator, Sarah keeps 40 dozen eggs in her basement.

Before someone complains, "Eggs must be refrigerated," Sarah has proof that there is more than one way to preserve an egg.

"I've kept eggs for 20 weeks without refrigeration," Sarah said.

Of course, anyone can keep an egg in the basement for 20 weeks if they aren't planning to eat it. But research shows that Sarah's 20-week-old eggs maintained their quality.

Sarah attributes her interest in eggs to her dad, who told her that when he participated in a wilderness project years ago, he was told that if an egg was boiled for 7 to 10 seconds, it would maintain its quality for 2 to 3 months.

Intrigued, Sarah decided to experiment with eggs. She used her research for a required project in her top-level science class at Hempfield High School. She then entered her project in the Lancaster and Science Engineering Fair where she received second place in the biology research. The following year, she did more in-depth research on eggs and again won second-place.

For the scientific experiment, Sarah tried boiling, microwaving, and waxing eggs for a variety of seconds to determine if the eggs would last.

"Boiling and microwaving worked," Sarah said.

Waxing did not work, but Sarah said a more in-depth look could determine why.

"Perhaps the eggs had spores that bred beneath the wax," she said.

She tried experimenting with eggs that had been processed and those that had not. She experimented with double bagging and refrigerating with styrofoam and pulp cartons.

With those 40 dozen eggs—20 dozen that had been processed and 20 that had not been—Sarah cracked an egg each week to test the quality. Through contacting local egg companies, Sarah became acquainted with Tom Fox, quality assurance manager for Sauder's Eggs. She now does all her testing at the Sauder's facility.

"My research is in its infancy stage, but it has potential for marketing," Sarah said.

In fact, her research has already caught the attention of science colleges, labs, and researchers. She received an award from the Navy and Army for applied science—its real use in the outside world.

"Depending where they are stationed, the military must keep food without refrigeration for large periods of time," Sarah said.

Last year in her scientific research, Sarah did a comparison between European and U.S. methods of egg handling. Europeans do not process eggs. While the American public believes they are being protected from salmonella enteritidis and other bacteria impenetration, processing actually causes the egg to deteriorate faster, according to Sarah's research.

She said that processing washes off fecal matter and feathers, but the 90-degree washing removes the cuticle, a natural substance in the shell that serves as a natural defense and anti-spoilage barrier to the egg and leaves the egg at risk for bacterial penetration. In addition, the hot temperature from washing the eggs requires several days of refrigeration to cool the center of the egg. Eggs stuck in liquid nitrogen to speed up the cooling process will cool the outside but leave the center relatively warm.

Sarah, an honor's student, attended the Governor's School for Ag Science this past summer. "I loved working in the labs and researching," she said. "So I know I'm headed in the right direction career-wise."

Sarah's contacts with the poultry industry and with working with Dr. John Schwartz at the extension office, opened up the opportunity for her to become the poultry ambassador.

While she is a well-qualified spokesperson for the industry and looks forward to the educational aspect of the position, Sarah had to learn to acquire the skill to make omelets to feed a crowd. After serving omelets at the Central Market's Harvest Breakfast, Sarah can flip omelets with ease.

As part of her ambassador duties, she will promote using eggs and poultry products in cooking.

"Our family is so busy, we like recipes where we can throw things together as fast as possible," said Sarah. She is the daughter of Russell and Barbara Woodling and has a brother Andrew, 13. The family lives in Landisville.

One of the family's favorites is Chicken Quesadillas: throw some boneless, skinless chicken meat into a skillet and lightly brown. Add some cooked rice, green pepper, cheese, and salsa in the amount preferred. Wrap in a tortilla and serve.

As the Poultry Ambassador, Sarah receives a $1,000 scholarship. She plans a double major in food science and in poultry management to prepare her for continual research.

"I'd like to attend Penn State, but I'm keeping my options open. There are several other good colleges out there and whichever offers me the best scholarships will influence my decision," Sarah said.

According to reports, Sarah's chances for scholarships sound optimistic. Preliminary interviews with several colleges show that they are amazed that a 17-year-old has conducted quality research. She also uses the latest technology available.

Sarah said, "I found that you shouldn't be afraid to ask questions or to ask companies for materials needed for research. So many companies seemed excited when I expressed interest in using their products. Our basement is filled with boxes of supplies that companies send me to try."

As the newly-appointed Lancaster County Poultry Ambassador, Sarah Woodling proves she is as adept at cooking as she is in conducting scientific experiments with eggs. Chicken Quesadillas is a family favorite.

While Sarah's research sounds as if it is a time-consuming project, the 17-year-old by no means limits her world to scientific research. She's deeply involved in music and performance. She is a first soprano in county chorus, in school chorus, band practice, and the color guard.

"I love music too much to make it my life. I do it for fun, but to succeed in music you must have incredible talent and focus entirely on one area," Sarah said.

Focusing on one area is not Sarah's style. She is involved in theater, plays, and musical at Hempfield. She works 12-16 hours bi-weekly at the Mennonite Home as a trayline aide and is the handler for family's show dogs—Pennbrook Welsh Corgi. She has been showing dogs since sixth grade.

The family's interest in show dogs happened by a fluke. They had purchased the Corgi as a family pet with no intentions of showing or even wanting a quality species. At five months of age, the breeder noticed their dog and said, "Never get that dog neutered. Start showing it."

Since then the Corgi has won numerous awards as both American and Canadian breed champion.

"I like keeping busy. The problem is that I enjoy everything," Sarah said of her involvement in so many diverse activities.

Sarah and two other former participants at the Governor's Ag School will hold seminars to acquaint other students with the program.

"A lot of students aren't aware of career opportunities in food science and in agriculture," Sarah said. "Some want to go into biology but they don't realize that ag is biology that is more applied research than sitting around reading a textbook."

It was a little egg that opened a whole new world to Sarah.

She said, "I never knew about food science and agricultural career opportunities until I got involved in this project. Now I know that is the direction I want to take."

Lancaster County Poultry Ambassador Sarah Woodling has won major awards for her scientific experiences that show the shelf life of eggs can be expanded without the use of refrigeration. Egg research has propelled Sarah into the direction of food science and agricultural studies. Sarah looks forward to the educational aspect expected in her role as Poultry Ambassador.

Hidden beneath the collecting leaves of fall blooms is the meadow saffron. Who would have thought an early fall planted bulb (actually a corm) could give a late fall show of color in the same year?

for flavoring dairy products, preserves and other foods.

Plant saffron crocus in large areas in front of the fall border or tuck them among shrubs and evergreen trees. Tucked between rocks or hidden in a perennial border their short stature of 3 to 6 inches makes them a good rock garden plant. Or, use them in the herb garden along walkways and paths, in pachysandra or vinca groundcover beds, beneath towering trees or Autumn-blooming crocus types like the saffron crocus, represent a large group of crocus flowers that resemble the familiar spring blooming crocus. They bloom in September, October, and November in southeast Pennsylvania. Crocus kotschyianus is an early bloomer, as easy as Labor Day some years. It has rosy-lavender color flowers used for naturalizing in the landscape. Best of all, all autumn crocus types multiply each succeeding year.

Plant saffron crocus in the spring or late summer, 3 to 4 inches deep in a light peaty or sandy soil. Plant 3 inches apart. Avoid rich heavily fertilized soil for the best flower show. Plant in light shade or full sun. In the late fall and winter, allow their foliage to die naturally without cutting to keep the large flowers erect.

Few realize the saffron crocus is the source of saffron, a pricey thread-like spice sold at farmers markets, grocery stores, or gourmet shops. The saffron consists of say it takes 4,000 blossoms to provide a source for an ounce of saffron.

Used as a cooking herb, a pinch of saffron adds an unique "one-of-a-kind" flavor and bright yellow color. It adds a wonderful bright yellow color to Pennsylvania Dutch, traditional bread stuffing. Try it in soup, with noodles or as part of cake recipe.

REFINANCE YOUR HOME MORTGAGE

Interest rates are low again. This may not be good for your savings account, but is good for your mortgage. This could be a good time to consider refinancing your home mortgage.

Before doing so, look at the numbers.

When you refinance your home mortgage, you may be required to pay points. Points are pre-paid interest. Each point represents one percent of the amount you are borrowing that is paid up front. Three points on a $100,000 mortgage, for example, would be $3,000. The more points you are willing to pay at closing time, the lower your interest rate will be. Points on refinancing are not deductible in the year you pay them, but must be spread equally over the number of the years of the mortgage.

There will be other costs associated with refinancing such as an application fee, title search, recording fee, and appraisal fee. To make a comparison of whether you are better off refinancing, you need to determine what all these costs will be. Lenders are required by law to give you an estimate of closing costs when you apply for a loan.

The next question is how much longer do you plan to live in the house? If you anticipate moving within the next three years, it is doubtful you will recover the costs of refinancing. To save interest costs, consider putting the amount you would have paid for refinancing toward pre-paying the principal.

For refinancing to make sense, you need to have a lower interest rate. How much lower does it need to be? The old rule of thumb is two percentage points. Rules of thumb being what they are, it is still a good starting point, but most computer analyses indicate that a smaller margin will usually be advantageous.

Other reasons to refinance are to change from a longer term mortgage to a shorter one. The lower interest rate may enable you to convert the remaining term of your 30-year mortgage to a 15-year mortgage while keeping your monthly payment the same. This will enable you to pay off the mortgage much earlier saving you thousands of dollars in interest costs.

Conversely, you could refinance to a new 30-year mortgage. By extending the term, you will have lowered your monthly payment. You will pay more in total interest costs over the life of your mortgage, but this will be offset in part by the new lower interest rate.

You can refinance to change from an adjustable rate to a fixed rate mortgage to gain the certainty of a level payment. This will probably result in a higher interest rate, however.

There are alternative to refinancing.

If your goal is to save on interest costs, consider pre-paying your mortgage. You can do so at no additional cost and save thousands in reduced interest costs. An extra $50 a month will reduce your principal by $600 each year. If you are still in the early years of your mortgage, this may knock off several years of payments at the other end.

A home equity loan or line of credit allows you to borrow up to 80 percent of the value of the equity in your home. The interest rate for these will be higher than for refinancing. As with refinancing, there are costs involved in obtaining either of these. You can use the money for home improvements, financing your children's education, or for other purposes. Using it for a vacation, current spending, or other "non-investment" items, however, is not a good idea because you are putting your home at risk. The interest on the home equity loan or line of credit is tax deductible.

A second mortgage is another alternative. Interest rates are comparable to installment loans, but the interest you pay on the second mortgage is tax deductible. As with the home equity loan or a line of credit, the money is best used for investment purposes such as home improvements, education, or medical bills rather than current consumption.

Looking to refinancing as a way to solve a debt problem is not likely to work, but it will reduce the cost of the debt. After all, you cannot borrow your way out of debt.

At Home With Lebanon County Li'l Miss

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) —

"Would you like a sticker? How about an eraser?" asks Royell Bashore as she presses a cow eraser and a "I love milk" sticker into the visitor's hand.

The five-year-old chatters on about her duties as Lebanon County's Li'l Miss, about Rocky her dog, and her new baby brother Ry Lynn, who is only six weeks old.

Royell is the daughter of Sherry and Bob Bashore, who live on a Jonestown farm.

At one time the Bashores owned their own farm, but now both mom and dad work on different farm.

"Same stuff, just less headache," Bob said cheerily. "We're happier now that we're working for someone else."

Bob had been renting his own farm since he was 18 years old. Now he works on his brother's dairy farm where he keeps some of his own cows. Sherry milks cows for neighboring Dave Williams' farm.

"And I like to help," said Royell who accompanies her mother to the barn. Royell helps put away the paper towels after the cows are prepped for milking.

Royell was selected as the county's Li'l Miss in June during the dairy princess pageant. She appeared on stage and read a story to the audience. The story was from a book that she and her mom composed by cutting pictures from magazines and compiling into the story, "How Milk Gets To You."

Royell also sang her "Milk Song."

At the dairy promotions where she accompanies County Dairy Princess Heidi Finnicle and County Dairy Maid Laura Blaich, Royell passes out stickers and erasers.

"But my favorite thing is making pudding," Royell said of the school promotions where children are taught to make pudding.

"Being a Li'l Miss is good experience for Royell," her mom said.

Sherry said, "Royell has a ball. I think kids pay more attention to the milk message of someone her age."

At one promotion her mother was helping out when she felt some birth pangs. Dad took his wife to the hospital, and 30 minutes later—before Royell got finished with the promotion—Ry Lynn was born.

Now Royell likes to sing and entertain her brother.

At home, Royell likes to play with Barbie dolls, farm with toy tractors, and play with the dog.

Her dad collects farm toys. He said, "I like them all—but I have a soft spot in my heart for IH's by far more than the others."

Already baby Ry Lynn has two IH toy tractors.

Sherry collects salt and pepper shakers and Indian dolls. She misses showing cows, but has pictures of champion cows framed on the kitchen wall.

Royell is an unusual name. She said she was named after her Australian grandparents Roy and Elva. The Australian grandparents are the family Sherry stayed with when she participated in the FFA Work Experience Abroad while in

Consuming Thoughts

Autumn brings a colorful harvest of wonderful winter squash with rich flavor inside its hard shell! Winter, or hard-shelled squashes are in good supply through the winter months, and some varieties are in the produce department year-round. It's a good idea to introduce winter squash to your menus and enjoy hearty, healthful eating.

There are several types of delicious hard-shelled squash to schedule into your meals. Interesting shell shapes, vibrant shell and flesh colors and nutty-sweet flavors bring a bounty of meal appeal to your table. While the exterior appearance of different winter squashes varies, all have bright yellow-orange flesh inside, and can usually be interchanged in recipes. Here are a few of the most common varieties.

• Acorn squashes have a dark green shell color showing areas of orange which increase during storage. Shaped somewhat like a acorn with wide ribs and pointed at one end, acorn squash is small to medium in size. This variety has a sweet nut-like flavor.

• Butternut squash is large and cylindrically shaped, with a round base and thick neck. It has tan shell color, rich orange flesh color and hearty sweet flavor.

• Hubbard squashes are large and rounded in the middle with tapering ends. They may have a dark blue, gray, green or orange shell color which is ridged with a pebbly texture. The squash has a rich, sweet flavor.

• Turban squash, with its colorful appearance, is an attractive table decoration as well as a rich and flavorful food. Turban-shaped, with a bright orange shell striped with white or green, turban squashes have hearty flavor.

Winter squashes are rich sources of vitamin A and dietary fiber. Most hard-shelled squashes contribute vitamin C, potassium and other nutrients. One cup of baked winter squash cubes has less than 80 calories and is sodium-free.

When shopping for squash look for quality in appearance. The shell should be intact with no soft spots or cracks. Squashes should feel heavy for their size. If stored in a cool, dry, well-ventilated place, they can keep up to several months. Do not refrigerate hard shells squashes.

There are three basic methods of preparing squash:

• Steamed-Peel squash, cut into 1 1/2 inch chunks and place in steam basket and cover. Steam 15 to 20 minutes or until tender.

• Baked whole squash—Slice off the stem end, scrape out the seeds and the stringy pulp. Brush with melted butter and season with sugar or salt, if desired. Most large squashes will require at least one hour or more of baking time. Prick with a fork to check for tenderness.

• Baked squash halves—This method works particularly well for smaller varieties such as the Acorn squash. Cut the squash lengthwise and scrape out the seeds and stringy portions. You can slice off a small piece on the bottom of each half to sit securely. Brush the flesh with melted butter. Place upside down in a baking pan; add water to a depth of about 3/4 inch and bake for about 30 minutes in a 400°F oven. While squash is baking, prepare a butter-sugar mixture, combining 1/3 cup melted butter with 1/4 cup honey, brown sugar or maple syrup for every 2-2 1/2 pounds squash. At the end of the baking time, turn squash cut sides up, and baste with the prepared mixture. Continue baking about 15 to 30 minutes or until tender.

Squash can be used in a variety of ways. You can mash cooked squash with a dash of hot-pepper sauce and minced onion for a spicy taste or you can add pureed cooked winter squash in soups.

Another wonderful suggestion is to stuff winter squashes with fruit, vegetable or meat fillings. Then bake and enjoy a hearty, natural casserole.

Chain Saw Safety

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.)—Have you wanted to use a chainsaw to cut your own firewood or remove some "problem" small trees but you were just a little intimidated by the machine? Have you been using a chainsaw but your are not quite sure what you were doing? If that is the case then consider Chainsaw Use for The Novice. This workshop will be held on Saturday, October 17 at the Da-Mar Farm in Rushville. Instructors Dave and June Sienko and Eleanor Maas have received training in safety and use of the chainsaw from some of the best instructors in the world. Dave Sienko has been in the logging business for years and is well known as a safe operator. Topics that these instructors will cover include:

- Correct Felling and Bucking Techniques
- Proper Clothing and Safety Tips
- Care and Maintenance of the Saw.

The workshop begins promptly at 9:00 a.m. and continues until noon. There is a $5 per person fee and registration is limited to the first 25 paid registrants. To register, send your name, address and phone number with a check made payable to Bradford County Cooperative Extension and mail to: Chainsaw, Penn State Cooperative Extension, PO Box 69, Towanda, PA 18848-0069. Both Sherry and Bob grew up on dairy farms. They always wanted to continue dairying, but felt too strapped financially and time-wise when they were on their own.

Cornell Food Scientists Discover Why Baked-Then-Cooled Mozzarella Cheese Turns Translucent

ITHACA, N.Y. — A Cornell University food science student has answered an age-old question that has puzzled collegians through the years: Dude, why is the cheese on this cold pizza translucent?

As those who save leftovers for next-day snacks know, low-fat mozzarella cheese turns almost clear after it has been baked on a pizza and then cooled. It gives leftover pizza an aged, unappetizing look. Lloyd E. Metzger, a Cornell doctoral candidate in food science, from Lester, Iowa, has discovered that it is the serum — the water content in the mozzarella cheese — that causes the translucency.

Pizza connoisseurs know that mozzarella should be white. Low-moisture, part-skim mozzarella has a fat content high enough to maintain a white color before baking, during baking and after the pizza cools down. But the lower fat mozzarella cheese has a white color when baked but doesn't retain the opaque whiteness during cooling.

"What's causing the mozzarella to become translucent? Well, by understanding how it works, we can control it," says Metzger. "In this study we wanted to find out what was happening to the structure of the cheese during heating and cooling."

Once made exclusively from the milk of water buffalo, mozzarella is composed of water, protein and fat. Mozzarella in the United States is made from cow's milk and then processed through a stretcher, in which a water solution is added. The fat and water are bound together in mozzarella by a protein called casein. Other proteins form the watery serum that is dissolved within the cheese.

When pizza is topped with mozzarella and popped into an oven, the water-soluble proteins interact with each other during the heating process. The serum in the cheese forms a white gel during heating that causes the cheese to become white. As it cools, the gel reverts back to a clear liquid, and the cheese then becomes translucent. As a result, the serum — the protein dissolved in the cheese's water — is responsible for the whiteness changes during heating and cooling of low-fat Mozzarella.

"When we make a fat-free cheese, we're trying to get the cheese to behave like a fattier cheese from a sensory point of view," says David M. Barbano, Cornell professor of food science.

"We know there's something in the low-fat cheese that makes the white color reversible during heating and cooling. One we completely understand cheese's properties, we can apply that information to control whiteness of other low-fat dairy foods."

Metzger won the American Dairy Science Association competition for graduate students this summer in Denver for his presentation on "Whiteness Change During Heating and Cooling of Mozzarella Cheese." He performed this research with Barbano; Michael A. Rudan, Cornell postdoctoral fellow in food science; and Ming R. Guo of the University of Vermont. It was funded by the Northeast Dairy Food Research Center and Dairy Management Inc.

Fashions, Sheep Impress Manheim Crowd

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The Shepherd's Lead Line provided an eye-catching show at the Manheim Community Farm Show last week.

Showing off woolly sheep and fashions were eight boys, eight junior girls, and six senior girls.

Minutes after being crowned Farm Show Queen, Sarah Zurin and her natural-colored ewe lamb participated in the Lead Line competition and placed first in the senior girls category.

In the same division, Amy Haines placed second; Renee Hoover, third; and Angie Bentzel, fourth.

Amy, 12, led a Hampshire lamb, and modeled a pair of hunter green and navy wool slacks and a navy cashmere wool sweater.

Renee, 15, of Denver, modeled a dress and jacket she made as a 4-H project and was a county gold ribbon winner. The short jacket was made from green and navy Pendleton wool and the solid navy dress was also of Pendleton wool.

Angela, 17, was escorted by her Hampshire lamb. She wore a blue Shetland wool sweater and a skirt she made of Roma Wool.

In the junior girls division Stacy Haines, 10, took first place. She led her Hampshire lamb Salt sporting a color-coordinating corsage and plaid halter. Stacy and her mom worked together to make the plum and gray-colored outfit, which included a jacket with pockets, full-styled pants, a lined vest, and a matching plaid beret.

Ashley Funk placed second with a woody dress accented with a short black jacket.

Heather Ziegler placed third in the junior division. Heather wore a two-piece wool dress and jacket styled by her mother. The dress was black wool crepe and the jacket was in a blue and black plaid with coordinating collar and covered buttons. Both she and her sheep wore matching beret hats.

After placing third in state competition earlier that week, Kelsey Bowman placed fourth in the local junior division. Kelsey wore a wool plum-stripped skirt and fuchsia jacket. She led a Columbia ewe named Rachel who wore plaid bows to compliment Kelsey's outfit.

Generally only one or two boys enter the contest, but to accommodate this year's eight males, a special class was created.

Taking first place was Gabriel Bowman, the picture of a country gentleman. He wore a wool tweed jacket in tones of brown and gray with solid wool trousers to complement. His wool vest was in tones of cream and brown to blend together the whole outfit.

Gabriel led his favorite Columbia ewe Bethany, which was adorned with a wool felt hat trimmed in a rust ribbon to match Gabriel's attire.

Radell Peters of Elizabethtown took a second place this year. He wore a light gray wool jacket with a dark gray wool slacks.

Third place went to Gordon Bowman, a nine-year-old from Drumore and brother to Gabriel. Gordon led a natural colored ewe and wore black wool pants with a gray herringbone wool jacket on top of a red turtleneck shirt.

Corby Ziegler, 14, placed fourth. His mother made him a green and blue wool plaid jacket with patch pockets accented with blue cordoroy on the collar and sleeves. He wore blue wool slacks. Both he and his ewe wore coordinating wool hats.

Contestants are judged on poise, showmanship, outfit being an appropriate style, originality, and on sheep presentation and its appearance. Extra points are given if the garment is hand spun, woven, knit or sewn.

Manheim Farm Show junior exhibitor champions in the Lead Line competition last week went to, from left, Stacy Haines, first place; Ashley Funk, second place; Heather Ziegler, third place; and Kelsey Bowman, fourth place.

Whiff From These Plants Not Aromatic

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A rose by any other name might smell sweet, but what about those ornamental or flowers with odors that can knock a buzzard off of roadkill?

Three horticulture experts in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences offer their choices for plants with overwhelming aromas. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture, writes extensively on gardening and is an expert on landscape plants. Robert Berghage, associate professor of horticulture, oversees the Penn State Trial Gardens. Jay Holcomb, professor of floriculture, is an expert on greenhouse flowers and cut flowers.

"There really aren't that many bad-smelling flowers used in gardens," Berghage says. "Most flowers have little or no scent, and those that do usually smell sweet. But there are a few that can offend some people's sense of smell."

Marigolds. These brightly colored annuals are extremely popular bedding plants — at least from a distance, according to all three Penn State experts. "They have an overpowering musky smell like wet hay or straw," Berghage says. "It's particularly strong when marigolds are cut and brought indoors."

"Marigolds have a really pungent odor," admits Nuss. "The flower actually smells fine, but the foliage will release a smell if the plants have been handled or cut."

Geraniums. Nuss says some gardeners like geranium odor, but many find its earthy smell offensive. "If you're in a dark room, you can definitely find the geranium," he says.

Lily. "The lily has an overpowering perfume smell, although some types smell stronger than others," Berghage says. "The smell of a lily in a small room often is enough to bring tears to my eyes."

Alyssum. "This flower has a very sweet smell that is overpowering when planted in large groupings," Berghage says.

Petunia. These plants have an earthy smell, according to Berghage.

Daisy/Chrysanthemum. "Most daisies have a mildly earthy smell, but some have a scent mildly reminiscent of cow manure," Berghage says.

Wayfaring Tree (Viburnum lantana). "The flowers on this shrub are small and white, but born in clusters that are very attractive," Holcomb says. "I once made a table arrangement using these flowers and regretted using it as a cut flower. The smell is hard to describe, but it was offensive."

Boy exhibitors at Manheim Lead Line last week were, from left, Gabriel Bowman, first place; Radell Peters, second place; Gordon Bowman, third; and Corby Ziegler, fourth.

Tree of Heaven. Imported from an island off the coast of China, this tree is an invasive species that drives out native trees. "The odor released by the tree when it is disturbed smells like a skunk to me," Nuss says.

Ginkgo Tree. The fruit of the female ginkgo tree exudes odors after it has fallen. The smell is similar to sewage or related material. "You don't want to be anywhere around this tree when that fruit hits the ground," Nuss warns.

Carrión Plants. This is a term for several varieties of flowers — mostly tropical species that don't grow well in outdoor gardens — that release odors similar to rotting flesh. "The flower attracts flies, which help the plant pollinate," Nuss says. "One plant in this group is called the 'corpse flower.'"

Nuss says gardeners can seek out ornamentals with pleasing smells, such as sassafras, spicebush, bayberry, some viburnums ("very perfume-like"), witch-hazel and magnolia ("a clove fragrance").

Work Isn't Done After Picking Last Garden Crop

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When cold weather or frost spells the end of the growing season, a horticulture specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences advises gardeners to spend an extra day preparing the garden site for winter.

"Once you've made the decision to turn the garden under, it will take less than a day to really prepare the site for winter and for next spring," says Pete Ferretti, professor of vegetable crops.

Ferretti says backyard gardeners should harvest their crops and prepare to close the garden when nighttime temperatures reach 45 degrees Fahrenheit four to five days in a row, or if any frost is predicted.

Ferretti says most garden crops cannot thrive after cold injury. Crops that should be harvested include beans, cantaloupe, cucumbers, eggplant, peppers, pumpkins, tomatoes, squash and watermelon.

"Some crops, such as endive, escarole and Brussels sprouts can be grown through colder temperatures," Ferretti says. "If you use row covers or even cornstalks to cover the crop, it can last into December."

Ferretti says it's up to homeowners to decide when to shut down their gardens. Depending on the year, temperatures can remain warm well into October or a killing frost can come early in September.

"It's like the stock market," Ferretti says of gardening. "There's a point where you should ask yourself, 'Should I take my profits and run, or should I hang in there for a few more tomatoes and peppers?'"

Once the decision to pick all non-hardy crops has been made, Ferretti recommends taking a day to prepare the garden for next year. After picking everything that can possibly be used, follow these steps:

— Diagnosis. After final harvest, Ferretti suggests checking plants for disease. If plants or fruits show major disease damage, the plants should be removed, placed in a plastic bag and thrown into the garbage.

— Stop and chop. Plants with minor or no disease damage should be cut down and chopped up. "You can use a sickle, hedge trimmer or lopping shears," Ferretti says. "You can even use a lawnmower to chop it finer if you are careful of stones and large pieces."

— Turn it over. Once the plants are chopped down, use a spade or a rototiller to turn the earth so organic breakdown of plant tissues can begin. "You can leave the surface rough," Ferretti advises. "It lessens erosion."

— Plant Annual ryegrass. Ferretti says annual ryegrass is a perfect cover crop for small gardens. "It comes up in seven days or so," he says. "It will be well-established by the time plants go dormant."

Ferretti says annual ryegrass produces a large rootmass, which keeps the soil loose. The roots also absorb phosphorus and attracts earthworms and microorganisms such as beneficial fungi, bacteria, yeasts, algae and other organisms that make the soil richer. "Planting ryegrass nearly eliminates erosion," Ferretti says. "The root structure holds the soil together and allows water to soak in. If the soil is left bare, a crust will form and much of the water will run off."

— Soil test. After the garden is prepared for the winter, Ferretti recommends testing the soil for nutrient deficiency. Apply lime as soon as possible, if it's needed," he says. "You won't need to add other nutrients to the soil until early spring, but it's nice to know what you'll need ahead of time."

— Add manure or compost (if needed). Gardeners should add manure or compost to the garden site in late October or November. "By spring, the components will have broken down and been incorporated into the soil structure," Ferretti explains.

— Starting the garden again. By spring, Ferretti says, most of the annual ryegrass will have died, so gardeners can rototill or dig up the garden and plant new crops.

Farmer Funded Research Responds To Cheese Demand

ROSEMONT, IL — Pizza eaters consume a lot of cheese—nearly one billion pounds a year. That number could go even higher if the dairy industry can solve certain technical issues with cheese for pizza production. This is where dairy checkoff-funded research comes in, helping build demand for milk used in cheese by improving cheese in pizza.

"Cheese manufacturers and pizza makers have told us the dairy industry can sell even more cheese if some further refinements are made," says Lyle Tjosaas, a dairy farmer from Kasson, MN, and a director of Dairy Management Inc.™ (DMI)

"Pizza makers want to meet consumer demand for pizza with reduced fat cheese that melts and tastes like regular cheese. They want technologies to maintain the taste and appearance of cheese on refrigerated pizzas. They want new cheese cultures to control the melting process."

Tjosaas points out that the most pizza makers, and even cheese manufacturers, depend on others to do this ingredient research. Dairy farmer-funded research is needed to make these improvements and increase demand for milk used in cheese," he says.

This farmer commitment to research into cheese used for pizza has resulted in the following technologies developed at checkoff-funded dairy research centers around the country:

• Reduced-Fat cheese: Three farmer-funded dairy research centers are working to make reduced-fat cheese melt, taste and look more like full-fat cheese on pizza. These centers include: the Northeast Dairy Foods Research Center (based at Cornell University, Ithaca, NY), the Wisconsin Center for Dairy Research (based at the University of Wisconsin-Madison) and the Western Dairy Center (based at Utah State University, Logan, UT).

• Customized Cheese: Researchers at the Wisconsin center and the California Dairy Foods Research Center (based in Davis, CA) have made it possible for cheese makers to customize their product for pizza makers. The Wisconsin center developed a process to make mozzarella-type cheese that uses the same equipment needed to make "stirred curd" cheeses such as Cheddar and Muenster. This process also provides greater control over functionality, such as melt and stretch. In California, a process allowing cheese manufacturers to control how fast cheese melts during the baking process is being applied to "cheese in the crust" pizza and other foods.

• Cheese in Refrigerated Pizza: Researchers at the Northeast center have found that movement of water between the cheese and pizza sauce is responsible for the breakdown of cheese in refrigerated pizza. These researchers are developing new techniques to maintain the taste and appearance of cheese in contact with pizza sauce. The research goal is to improve sales of refrigerated pizza through supermarkets and convenience stores.

Checkoff-funded innovations in cheese research and technologies are communicated to pizza makers and cheese manufacturers through industry meetings, trade shows, exhibits and other marketing communication efforts.

"This establishes farmer-funded research as a trusted source of information cheese manufacturers rely on to sell more cheese," Tjosaas says. "This will benefit dairy farmers, because cheese demand drives the domestic dairy industry today. The more demand there is for cheese, the stronger our dairy business becomes."

National Dairy Women's Conference Nov. 12-14

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Women's roles in dairies are changing as fast as the industry itself. Dairy women, like all dairy producers, need to keep "One-Step Ahead" of the latest trends in the industry. They need to know where the business of dairying is heading, as well as the most innovative technologies available to make their dairies more effective and efficient. That's why Monsanto Dairy Business is coordinating the first ever "One-Step Ahead" National Dairy Women's Conference.

More than 150 dairy women will convene in Minneapolis, Minn. on Nov. 12-14 to learn more about practical topics such as farm safety, time and stress management, calf care, financial and estate planning, Internet usage and technological innovations.

"At Monsanto Dairy Business, we realize women's on-farm responsibilities are increasing and becoming more managerial. We see this conference as an opportunity to empower dairy women with up-to-date knowledge about dairying and the chance to network with other women from across the country," says Dorothea Fitzsimmons, Technical Service Specialist, Monsanto Dairy Business.

Diane Phillips, Phillips Family Farm, North Collins, N.Y., attended her first regional Monsanto

Dairy Women's conference a few years ago and was pleased with the experience.

"I enjoyed the regional conference because it was a great opportunity to speak to other women with similar circumstances," Phillips explains. "The regional conference also offered valuable information."

Phillips says she is pleased that Monsanto is sponsoring the "One-Step Ahead" National Dairy Women's Conference. She says she believes bringing women who are involved in agriculture throughout the United States to one central location to discuss industry issues and share ideas offers everyone involved many opportunities.

"Attending a conference focused on women's issues in the dairy industry offers us the opportunity to interact with other women involved in agriculture," says Phillips, who operates a 470-cow dairy and farms 700 acres with her husband, David. "We can share our experiences about our businesses and our families, plus, because it's a national conference, we can learn something from women who live throughout the country."

Because Monsanto understands dairy women have interests outside their profession, there also will be a discussion on the latest in women's health issues, as well as motivational speakers, entertainment and a trip to the Mall of America.

"We've developed a well-rounded conference to meet the informational needs, as well as the social networking needs of dairy women," says Fitzsimmons. "Based on the input I've received from Monsanto's dairy women peer groups, this conference is something women active in dairying have wanted for a long time."

To attend the "One-Step Ahead" National Dairy Women's Conference or to simply learn more about the event, contact a local Monsanto Dairy Business representative or call 1 (800) 822-3090 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. PST. Deadlines are October 1 for early bird registration and October 2 - November 11 for regular registration.

Warning To Gas Refrigerator Owners

CLEVELAND, Ohio — If your propane or natural gas refrigerator is a Servel brand manufactured between 1933 and 1957, it may be endangering your life.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) says that these old model Servel refrigerators have caused at least 14 deaths as the result of carbon monoxide poisoning. These refrigerators continue to be used in hunting cabins, vacation cottages, and remote areas of the nation where there is no electricity, or where gas is a preferred energy source.

To protect yourself and your family from potential hazard, stop using your old Servel gas refrigerator immediately.

Over a period of time, especially if the refrigerator has not been used recently, the gas burner can be fouled by dust, dirt, rust, spider webs, or other obstructions. This can cause improper combustion of the fuel, leading to the production of carbon monoxide, a colorless, odorless and deadly gas.

Any gas refrigerator with an improperly adjusted or partially plugged burner can produce enough carbon monoxide to kill the occupants of a cottage or house in just one night.

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include nausea, headaches and dizziness.

Receive Cash For Servel Refrigerator

The CPSC has arranged for you to receive $100 in exchange for your old Servel refrigerator. To qualify for the rebate, you must arrange to have your refrigerator disposed of and destroyed to ensure that the refrigerator will never be used again and place others at risk. In addition to the $100 rebate, you will be fully reimbursed for all of your costs of disposal.

Representatives Are Standing By

If you have a Servel gas-fueled refrigerator, call the Servel Hotline toll-free at 1-800-782-7431. Operators are standing by 24 hours a day. Or write: Servel Rebate, P.O. Box 14874, Cleveland, OH 44114.

Play It Safe

For year round safety:

- Any gas refrigerator should be cleaned and adjusted by a certified technician. Your nearby propane supplier may have fully trained personnel on staff to service your refrigerator, or can direct you to a certified appliance technician.

- Never start your gas refrigerator at the beginning of a season without first having it serviced.

- Always adequately ventilate any enclosed area where the refrigerator is in use. For optimal safety, keep the refrigerator permanently located outdoors in a shed or garage not connected to your home or cottage.

QUESTION — Barbara Fair, Mohrsville, remembers a poem from her childhood, which is about a woman who spent her whole life fighting dirt. The final lines are something about "she lay down and died, and was buried in dirt." Does anyone have the complete poem?

QUESTION — Paul Charles wants antlerless deer licenses for Montgomery County issued for the years 1951, 1952, 1953, and 1955. Willing to pay a very good price. Call (717) 724-3482.

QUESTION — Rosalyn Miller, Honesdale, would like to know where to get the book "The Practical Stock Doctor," in good condition and for a reasonable price. It was written about 1914 and included good remedies for animal sicknesses.

QUESTION — Shirley Runk, Mount Union, would like to know where to purchase plastic lids with a spout that are used on one-gallon Sun-tea jars.

QUESTION — Peter Jueress writes that in the late 1970s or early 1980s, J.C. Whitey had a book, which he thinks was titled "How To Convert Your Car, Van, or Pickup to Diesel." Also Diesel Engineering Service in Oregon had a book detailing how to install Perkins 4/6 cylinder diesels into pickups. These books are no longer available. He'd like if someone would sell him these book or tell him where to find other books detailing gasoline to diesel engine swaps. Call him at (914) 266-8239.

QUESTION — Amos Stoltzfus, 37510 Westham Lane, Mechanicsville, Md., would like to find tracks and motor for a TD6 International tractor in good condition or a Farmall M diesel motor in good shape.

QUESTION — Matthew L. Stephens, Starrucca, would like the address of the man who collects postcard with covered bridges.

QUESTION — Leon Stoltzfus, Leola, would like to know where to purchase the round juicing disk for an Atlas Juicer made by Juice Master Mfg., Co., Model 36. No. D12041.

QUESTION — Floy Eberly, Stevens, would like the complete words to a poem he had learned at West Stevens School. Floy was deeply touched by the poem that ends every verse with the words: "Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, lest we forget."

QUESTION — Herman Kinsinger, Stuarts Draft, Va., wants to know where to find new parts for the Zero milkers. He heard the milkers are no longer manufactured.

QUESTION — Jean Nestler, Halifax, would like the name of a company that makes towels and washcloths and does embroidery work on them.

QUESTION — Joelle Fischer would like to know where Swiss cheese with a touch of ham can be purchased. Her brother used to get it at market. She checked at different places but no one has ever heard of it. Joelle said the cheese is extremely delicious and has a taste all its own. It is not sharp and is quite different from any flavor she ever tasted in cheese.

QUESTION — Ben Kinsinger, Meyersdale, would like to know where to get a Farmall pedal tractor like the Farmall M Tractor. Doesn't matter if the pedal tractor needs repair. He would also like to know where if anyone has parts for a Farmall Cub for sale.

QUESTION — Don Miller, Summit Hill, wants to know who can appraise the value of an antique goat cart. Call him at (717) 645-9693.

QUESTION — Art Sholly Jr., Mt. Joy, wants to know where to find a gas-fired Royal Peanut Roaster, any condition and any size.

QUESTION — Fannie Beiler, Lancaster, would like to know where to purchase a Bio-Snacky sprouter of someone who is willing to sell theirs.

ANSWER — L.N., East Earl, wanted to know where to mail-order Western-style shirts for men or boys. Thanks to D. Fite, Peachbottom, for recommending two places. Request catalogs from the following: Sheplers, Wichita, KS, 1-800-835-4004. Or, The Fort Western Outpost, Nebraska City, NE, 1-800-556-3678.

ANSWER — Elizabeth Beaver, Ringtown, wanted the Latin name and information about a plant called Sweet Annie. Thanks to a faithful reader who wrote that it is Artemisia annua. The Sweet Wormwood grows to a height of 4-5 feet. Plant in full sun or light shade. It is an annual that often reseeds itself, but it is not invasive.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how to control thripes from ruining glads. Thanks to a reader who writes that just before planting bulbs in the spring, remove husks, check for defects. Soak corms for three hours in one gallon water, 1½ tablespoons Lysol, and 3 tablespoons wettable Captan-50. Also for thrip control, spray three times a season with Orthene. First time when leaves are 6-10 inches high, again when most of the flower spikes begin to show, and the third time after most of the flowers have bloomed.

ANSWER — Walter Breen, Lancaster, wanted to know where to purchase a Japanese mason-jar beetle trap. The traps are available at Clark Supply, Inc., S. Queen St., Rising Sun, MD 21911 or call (410) 658-6464.

ANSWER — Alan Roper, Shippensburg, wanted information on milk cows. For free information, check with the Dauphin-Cumberland County Extension at (717) 921-8803.

ANSWER — Mrs. Norman Burkholder, Denver, sent this recipe for making soap in an iron kettle, which had been requested by Leona Leiby from Kutztown.

Homemade Soap

- 16 pounds raw fat
- 3 pounds caustic soda
- 7½ gallons water
- 2 pints salt

Dissolve caustic soda in cold water (use only containers such as crocks and stone jars). Put water and fat in the iron kettle. Start fire. Add half of the caustic soda solution, cook until fat is dissolved. Add 2 pints salt. Add remainder of solution when fat is dissolved. Keep fire hot, but not too hot. Be prepared with a bucket of water if mixture begins to rise to high. Let cool overnight or until soap is hard. Cut into blocks.

For an unknown reason premelted lard will not turn out nice soap with this cooking method.

ANSWER — Carl Calleari, DuBois, is restoring his Harry Ferguson TO20 farm tractor and needs a left-side hood decal that reads "Ferguson." Thanks to Kenneth Horning Repair has decals available. Call him at (717) 335-3247 evenings.

"These new tractors offer more of what our customers consider important features when purchasing high horsepower, row crop tractors," said Henry Meyer of BHM Farm Equipment in Annnville. "Improved styling, new engines with full authority electronic management systems, a new smoother shifting powershift transmission, and improvements in operator comfort meet and excel industry performance standards."

This new Agco Allis line is a continuation of the 9700 series family that began with the 125 and 145 horsepower models 9735 and 9745. The additions to the line include the 9755 (160 hp), 9765 (180 hp), 9775 (200 hp), and 9785 (225 hp). Each tractor is manufactured to lower operating costs and increase productivity.

Maximum power and in-field efficiency is provided by the Agco Allis 1300 Series 6-cylinder, 8.7 liter, 530-cubic inch diesel engines that offer full authority electronically controlled fuel injection and power cruise systems. Engines on the 9755 and 9765 are turbocharged. The 9775 and 9785 engines feature turbocharging and air-to-air cooling.

Ag-Chem Wins Engineering Awards

MINNETONKA Minn. — The American Society of Agricultural Engineers has chosen three Ag-Chem Equipment Co., Inc. (Ag-Chem) (NASDAQ/NMS:AGCH) products to receive the 1997 AE50 Award.

The awards, which were published in Resource Magazine, are granted to the top 50 "...outstanding innovations in product or systems technology introduced during 1997."

Ag-Chem's prize-winning products are the Terra-Gator® 8103, the Terra-Gator® 3104, and the Variable Rate Sludge Applicator (VRT®) as outstanding innovations in product or systems technology introduced during 1997.

The 8103 Terra-Gator is a new three-wheeled, self-propelled agricultural vehicle with a newly designed frame, cab, and overall appearance. The 8103 comes equipped with the John Deere 6081H 300-hp diesel engine, an 11-speed Terra-Shift transmission which shifts under full power at the tap of a lever. Operator comfort in the 8103 consists of 45 percent more glass to improve operator visibility. The Terra-Gator 8103 chassis can be equipped with either a liquid or a dry fertilizer application system.

The VRT Sludge Application System is a new product for precise liquid based organic byproduct application for production agriculture. Proper byproduct handling, control, and application are ensured with the Ag-Chem Falcon™, which is a map based, variable rate, product application system. During application, the substance is spread evenly across the tillage tool with a hydraulically powered distributor. The pumping system has a capacity of more than 1,500 gallons per minute. All controls are electronic and automated to increase operator comfort.

The 3104 Terra-Gator is a severe service, high-flotation, off-road, four-wheel vehicle with articulated steer and selectable two or four-wheel drive. The power train includes a John Deere 6081H diesel engine, rated at 300hp, and an 11-speed Terra-Shift transmission. The transmission can shift-on-the-go under full power by tapping the shift lever up or down. The 3104 was designed with ergonomics in mind by providing an air-ride captain's chair, full-view door, three-level environmental filtration, panoramic glass, and 360° view windows.

More Drilling Options With 2400, 2410, 2420 From Great Plains

SALINA, Kan. — Great Plains has expanded three-point possibilities with a new 24-foot, three-point grain drill. With a design similar to the popular Great Plains 12-, 15- and 20-foot three-points, the 24-foot drill offers greater productivity and efficiency in a proven performer.

Outfitted with 00, 10 or 20 series openers, the 24-foot drill appeals to farmers across the country. The 2400 with straight-arm openers or the 2410 with parallel-arm openers are solid choices for both conventional and no-till conditions. This side-

Openers on the Great Plains 2420 have side depth wheels for precise depth control and flotation over soft soils.

depth-control openers on the 2420 provide maximum depth control in low-residue, stale-seeded conditions. With 24 feet of operating width and 57.6 bushels of total capacity, all models offer increased productivity.

Crompton & Knowles, Bayer To Form Seed Treatment Venture

STAMFORD, Ct., and PITTSBURGH — Crompton & Knowles Corporation (NYSE: CNK) and Bayer AG, Germany, represented by its American subsidiary Bayer Corporation, announced they have agreed in principle to form joint ventures to serve the agricultural seed treatment market in North America utilizing the Gustafson business entities.

Gustafson will be the basis of the (50/50) joint venture and will continue to be headquartered in Plano, Texas, under its current management. Gustafson Inc. operates as a unit of Uniroyal Chemical Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Crompton & Knowles.

Bayer will acquire a 50 percent interest in the Gustafson seed treatment business. When the agreement is concluded, the new joint ventures will serve as seed treatment units for both Crompton & Knowles and Bayer in North America. The value of the cash transaction was not disclosed.

"Both corporations will benefit from this joint focus on development of seed treatment technology and applications in North America," said Vincent A. Calarco, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Crompton & Knowles. "While Uniroyal and Bayer will continue to operate independently in other seed treatment markets around the world, Gustafson's access to the additional technical resources and expertise of Bayer will give it added capabilities in North America."

"Due to our wide range of active ingredients, Bayer already plays a major role in the world's seed treatment business. The synergies that will derive from these joint ventures will further the position of Bayer as a leading company providing innovative seed treatment technology to the seed industry and the farming community," said Dr. Jochen Wulff, president of Bayer's worldwide crop protection business group.

According to Emile Lansu, president of Bayer's American agriculture division, the joint ventures will provide enormous benefits to North America's farmers by accelerating the development of new chemical compounds and biologicals for seed treatment applications.

New Holland Adds 42-62 PTO HP TND/TNS Tractors

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The new TND and TNS 42-62 PTO HP New Holland tractors combine small overall dimensions for maneuverable versatility with large tractor durability features. All are powered by fully "emissionized" 3-cylinder diesel engines rated at 2300 RPM for low noise and vibration.

The three new TNS models (42, 52, 62 PTO HP) feature the exclusive New Holland SuperSteer™ front axle with Traction Management System to automatically engage FWD as needed for improved traction, better fuel economy with reduced tire wear and less turf damage. SuperSteer™ front axles allow the tightest turning radius in the industry. Wet disk brakes are self-adjusting and self-equalizing for positive stops.

The new TND tractors—42, 52 and 62 PTO HP—are offered with cab and choice of 2WD or FWD. TNS tractors are offered with foldable 2-post ROPS or factory-installed cabs. Like the TNS tractors, TNDs are available with any of four transmissions: 8X8 Synchro-Command™ with synchronized mechanical shuttle; 8X8 Synchro-Command with Power Shuttle; 16X16 power shuttle units. The electro-hydraulic power shuttle allows forward to reverse shifting without clutching. Gears are synchronized for on-the-go shifting between gears in each range.

TND and TNS factory-installed cabs are pressurized with air conditioners and heaters as standard equipment.

Large window areas offer maximum visibility. Front and rear washer-wipers are standard. Both TND and TNS tractors feature separate engine-mounted hydraulic pumps to assure full flow steering and to supply all implement hydraulic needs. A 12.4 GPM supplies implement hydraulic power for the 42 and 52 PTO HP units. A 16.9 gallon pump is standard on the 62 HP TN75D and TN75S. Up to four remotes can be installed at the rear of the tractors. A mid-mount hydraulic coupler kit is available for convenient front loader installation. A factory-installed joystick control handle simplifies loader operation.

Tire Offers Versatile Service

GREENVILLE, S.C.— The new BFGoodrich brand Power Grip™ bias-ply farm and ranch tire from Michelin North America Inc. offers producers a value-priced, general service option for all types of soils and operations.

The Power Grip's excellent traction delivers a firm grip to minimize slippage and maximize the tractor's pulling ability. Its steady, reliable performance is enhanced by the BFGoodrich brand's traditional self-cleaning 45-degree lug which helps maintain tread "bite" and provides excellent directional stability even in tough conditions.

The Power Grip is very affordable and provides exceptional resistance to stubble damage, reducing the possibility of punctures and flats. The tire's tread design, wear resistance and performance characteristics are particularly attractive for fitment on front wheel assist tractors as well as rear wheels on older tractors and "utility" tractors. Another primary application for the Power Grip is on older combines and harvesters.

Survey Will Allow Input For National Pesticide Initiative

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Growers who produce field corn or potatoes may be asked to participate in a survey tracking how agricultural chemicals are used. The survey is being conducted by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service in cooperation with Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

The data being collected in support of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Pesticide Impact Assessment Program (NAPIAP).

"The survey is intended to establish a baseline of information for the USDA and the Environmental Protection Agency on how agricultural chemicals are used, and the quantities that are used for certain crops," said William Hoffman, senior extension associate in Penn State's Pesticide Education Program. "This information will be used by regulatory agencies to establish pesticide levels that conform with the accepted guidelines for accumulated pesticide residues set by the recently enacted Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA).

"When agencies consider whether to cancel agricultural chemicals or establish tolerance levels for residues, they seek information on usage patterns, economics benefits and other factors," Hoffman said. "The data also will help Penn State produce relevant fact sheets and educational materials for growers interested in topics such as seed usage, tillage, and integrated pest management."

Approximately 600 growers will be selected to take part in the survey. They will be asked which chemicals they use, how many acres are treated, application rates, integrated pest management practices, and grower characteristics.

"Typically, the interview lasts an hour," Hoffman said. "Producers should prepare by having their agricultural chemical use records near at hand so the interview goes quickly and smoothly."

Hoffman emphasized that all information from individual growers will remain confidential.

"Farmers have a direct stake in responding to the survey," Hoffman said. "For instance, potato and corn growers rely on such compounds as dithane, Bravo, and lorsban. Use of these compounds could be scaled back or eliminated under the tighter regulatory usage standards dictated by the FQPA. Accurate pesticide usage information is needed for the continued use of these chemicals."

Hoffman also points out that information on usage patterns often influences manufacturers' decisions to submit a product for re-registration and approval with regulatory agencies. "Usage data are crucial in the approval process," he said.

Following the collection and analysis of survey data, state and national estimates of agricultural chemical use by the surveyed grower groups will be published in mid-1999.

The Rhino® SE8 and SE10
are economical rotary mowers designed to help maintain larger acreages
of grass, weeds, stalks, or material up to 1" in diameter.

The streamlined, close-coupled design allows economical operation on tractors as small as 30 horsepower on the SE8 and 45 horsepower on the SE10. The 85 HP center gearbox and 60 HP outboard gearboxes are protected from sudden shockloads by a slip clutch on the main driveline and torque dampers on the side drivelines. Pan blade carriers help the unit glide over field obstacles and updraft blades with a 4" blade overlap provide a clean cut. The SE8 is available as a 540 RPM unit with either a CAT II lift or clevis pull-type hitch to fit a range of tractors. The SE10 is available with either a heavy-duty CAT II-III QH or pull-type hitch for 540 or 1000 RPM tractors. The 10 gauge deck is reinforced front-to-rear and side-to-side for optimum strength. The Cat 4 main driveline and all gearboxes are fully-shielded for greater operator safety. Front and rear safety deflectors are standard equipment to help reduce the risk of damage or injury due to thrown objects. Front and rear chain guards are optional equipment. Compare and you will see why the Rhino SE8 and SE10 are excellent choices for economical wide-cut mowers.

The 900 blade is available in widths of 7', 8', and 9' and features a heavy-duty CAT I-II three-point hitch and CAT II quick-hitch. The 9' model is rated for up to 95 PTO HP wheel-type tractors. Mainframe swing, moldboard angle, and moldboard tilt adjustments are easily made by relocating the index pins manually. Maximum offset from the center line of the tractor is 30" for working outside dual wheels. The 900 blade features a 3" diameter solid steel kingpin and a reinforced 3/8" x 17" moldboard to withstand the horsepower of larger tractors. The circular moldboard carrier plate allows adjustments throughout the full 360 degrees of moldboard angle to help accomplish numerous jobs easily. The quick-tach end plates are a helpful feature when trying to move or level bulk material, including loose soil or gravel. Skid shoes, quick-tach end plates, CAT II quick coupler bushings, and a gauge wheel are optional equipment.

You've Never Seen A Harvest Like This

Introducing The 2300 Series Axial-Flow® Combines.

The three 2300 Series combines are equipped with a high-visibility operator environment so revolutionary, everything else is history.

Wider, amazingly comfortable and designed with convenient cab-forward controls and instrumentation, this cab literally conforms to its occupant. An engineering landmark - Focalized Cab Mounting - minimizes motion for a smooth, steady ride. A multi-function propulsion lever puts most operations right in the palm of your hand. And an all-new right-hand console moves in tandem with your seat.

At the heart of the 2300 Series remains the strength of the Axial-Flow combine - the exclusive, patented rotor. And the recent addition of the Cross Flow™ cleaning fan provides a remarkably uniform, powerful airflow throughout the entire sieve area.

Why not stop by and see the new Case IH 2300 Series for yourself? We'll help you discover a better way of looking at your harvest.

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

"We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations. We save 1 1/2 - 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow"

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprize Holsteins - Horton, Wisconsin

"We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking. Before our Knight Reel Auggie, feeding a TMR took us 1 1/2 hours twice a day. Now each feeding takes approximately 1/2 hour"

John and Harry Nooyen
Brabantdale Farms - Narvan, Ontario, Canada

"We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 milking. We owned a 4-auger mixer before. Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration"

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers - Newbury, Pennsylvania

"We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head. Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned. Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two-thirds"

Warren and Dave Otto
Otto Farms - Valders, Wisconsin

- Handles a wide variety of material – slurry gutter material, cow manure, even poultry litter
- 1375 gallon capacity with side rails in place.
- V-tank design delivers material to the auger fast
- Heavy-duty round-core auger produces less drag
- Double-acting hydraulic cylinder moves auger up and down to keep material flowing
- Hydraulic gate and specially designed expeller give precise application control
- Backed by a 10-year warranty against tank rust-through

See us for all your spreader needs.

NEW TOUGHNESS OLD-FASHIONED DURABILITY

When the Case
International 3800 Tandem Disk Harrow was introduced, it combined real improvements with the quality features of the 350, 370, and 475.

For instance, a 1 1/2 inch round arbor bolt at the heart of every gang assembly

Or consider the spring-
cushion, self-leveling hitch
And, you'll disk confidently all day long using the mechanical depth control

The 3800 is available in widths from 9 ft. 1 in. to 20 ft 6 in. Just pick the 3800 that fits your power availability and tillage needs

Buy your new cushion gang disk harrow right here in Quarryville

#8104 Action TRAIN Alarm Clock!

by

Delweaco

If you remember the old steam engine going down the track with the 'drivers' chugging away, the whistle screaming, and the bell 'ding-dong' ing; you will be amazed at this latest edition to our DELWEACO line of mantle, alarm, and novelty clocks!

When this alarm goes off, the miniature steam engine goes round and round, in and out of the round house; the whistle blows (VERY realistic!), the red and green lights blink on and off on each side of the station; and the bell clangs and clangs, the drivers chug-chug! Sounds exactly like the old steam engines used to! You will be very impressed with the sound of this toy train! YOU MUST SEE AND HEAR THIS ONE!! NOTE: This is NOT A TOY although my grandchildren love to watch the train go round and round and listen to the bell, the whistle, and the rumble of the drivers! I promise you it will wake you in the morning. Very loud.. Do not use as an alarm if you scare out of sleep etc., as we said before, it is LOUD! The clock movement is our quartz movement, accuracy to + or - 3 minutes a year. Uses 3 'AA' Alkaline batteries. (not included.). Silver and black finish case is 8" tall and 7" circumference. Dial is 2 1/4" round with black numbers and hands. Our ONE YEAR GUARANTEE!. Suggested Retail: $49.95.

Realistic!

- Whistle
- Clanging Bell
- Chug-Chug
- Blinking red & green Lights on each side
- Steam Engine goes round-n-round in and out of the Round House Station

TYPES OF HARMONICAS

SINGLE REED (Diatonic) The reeds of diatonic harmonicas are tuned to produce the natural notes of the scale without sharps or flats. Each hole has a blow and draw reed. Most of these harmonicas have ten holes with the four middle holes providing a complete note octave.

TREMOLO TUNED Tremolo harmonicas have double holes each containing two reeds tuned to the same note, one tuned slightly higher than the other. Both reeds are either blow or draw, which creates a beautiful vibrating or tremolo effect.

OCTAVE TUNED Octave tuned harmonicas are similar to tremolos in reed layout. The difference is that each double hole, instead of having reeds tuned to the same note, has one reed an octave apart from the other. The resulting sound is stronger and more full bodied. Full Concert models have four reeds in each double hole, a pair of blow and draw reeds.

CHROMATIC Provide complete 12 note octaves with all sharps and flats. Pressing the slide on the side of the harmonica opens closed reed for sharps/flats. The Chromatic is a true practice

It of course must be long enough to reach through and for the mounting nut to screw on to hold the movement or works in position. See the diagram at right and the different shaft lengths below.

The shaft lengths shown below apply to all of our battery (quartz) movements.

Visiting Our Office:

We suggest you call first before you stop at our office to make sure you have directions. We are located closer to Parkman Ohio, rather than West Farmington. We are a mailorder house and therefore we do not have a retail store, as such. (Although you can pick up any item/s we have in this catalog at our office here in Parkman, except nameplates.) Many people stop in looking for the 'big store'; and there isn't any. We found out over the years that we can better serve our customers by being good at what we do - MAILORDER. Our offices are in one end of the warehouse, where we store a large quantity of everything you see in this catalog. This allows us to ship promptly and keep our prices BELOW discount levels.

Dear Friends and Customers;

October 1, 1998

As we near the end of our 40th year in Mailorder; we pause and realize we have many blessings to be thankful for. We appreciate you as our customer and consider it a privilege to serve you. We thank God for our family and our health. He has been good to us.

We trust that 1998 has been a good year for you; and that you are looking forward to 1999 as an even better year for you and your family. May God give you good health and peace.

As we begin our 41st year in December, we look back over 40 years and are astounded by the changes that have taken place; in our family, as well as in our country, and in our world. I wish everything that has happened has been to the good, however, you and I know that is not always been the case.

It seems like a few short years ago, I wrote a holiday letter similar to this, and remember that we had at that time; four children; for which we have always been grateful. (You have probably talked to everyone of them on the phone at one time or another as this is a family operation.) Today, we have been blessed with those same four children; with four husbands or wives; and 12 grandchildren! When we all gather for a holiday or birthday; we have quite a crowd! We are very thankful for each one.

We are always happy to hear from our customers and learn more about their families, etc., so don't hesitate to let us know how you and yours are doing. We appreciate it!

We hope you'll take the time to look over this catalog and hopefully we have something you like. We pledge that we will always try to satisfy each of our customers, to the best of our ability.

May God Bless each of you and may you have a Merry & Blessed Christmas and a Happy & Healthy 1999!

Andy

NFO Halts Cull Cow Movement

AMES, Iowa — National Farmers Organization Livestock, one of the nation's largest cull cow marketers, announced it will encourage its producers to halt their cull cow marketings, effective Tuesday, Oct. 6.

National Farmers Organization released the news, focusing attention on disastrously low cull cow prices. Cull cows are used to make hamburger and steaks for the fast food industry.

"The message we're hearing from beef and dairy producers is that they simply can't continue selling at current prices," said National Farmers Organization President Gene Paul. "These are completely unprofitable and unjust prices. Our members are simply going to shut the farm gate and we're hoping other producers will follow suit. These plummeting prices can be compared to a non-agricultural employee accepting a 20 percent salary cut in one month.

During recent weeks, prices have fallen into the high 20 center per pound range, and producers are suffering a significant decline in income. The marketing halt promotes an "extended time-window sales approach" that is farmer, packer, and consumer friendly.

Industry analysts note that during the last four decades, farmers' share of the beef dollar has fallen steeply. During that time period, the farmers share declined nearly 35 percent, from 71 cents to 46 cents. In comparison, the retailers' share rose dramatically from 21 cents to 45 cents.

 "Hi-Moisture Shelled Corn"
 You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.
 "Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."
 "Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to prefab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."
"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT"

Rural Economy

Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain
channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.
